Premier Pompidou Splits With President De Gaulle

PARIS (AP) — Georges Pompidou has split with President Charles de Gaulle over social reforms for France and will be replaced as premier by former Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville, sources close to the government said Tuesday.

Pompidou, a former banker, was understood to oppose De

Gaulle's "participation" plan for workers and students to share in managing factories and universities. De Gaulle has offered the plan as his long-term answer to the social frustrations that boiled up in the nationwide riots and strikes of May and June.

Labor unions and businessmen also have voiced opposition to the participation plan, although De Gaulle has never spelled out its details.

De Gaulle praised Pompidou highly at the height of the crisis six weeks ago. But a source close to the premier commented Tuesday on reports of his impending ouster: "It's true."

It had been expected for some time that Pompidou would step down as premier but only to escape political entanglements and ready himself as De Gaulle's heir apparent, for the presidency. Now Pompidou's future course was unclear.

Pompidou holds a National Assembly seat that he would retain as a political base regardless of any change in the premiership.

Couve de Murville, 61, was named finance minister for an interim period starting at the end of May.

Pompidou, 56, has been premier since April 14, 1962, when he succeeded Michel Debre, De Gaulle's only other premier since he returned to power in 1958.

During the height of the May student-striker crisis, De Gaulle took pains to say "I shall not change the premier whose worth, solidity and capacity deserve the homage of all."

De Gaulle spoke when there were suggestions among the Gaullists that Pompidou should quit. De Gaulle called on Pompidou on May 31 to make the shifts in the Cabinet he felt were necessary to get France through the crisis.

Since then, De Gaulle has several times insisted on his "participation" reforms, which he has only vaguely spelled out. He had obviously taken the great Gaullist successes in the June legislative elections as a mandate to push through the reforms.

Couve de Murville, who had been foreign minister since 1958, has already begun a strict austerity program to get France's economy back to normal following the costly general strikes which lasted more than a month in May and June. The program includes import quotas on certain products, export subsidies, higher interest rates and exchange controls.

$78,843 Grant Approved For Training Program

A grant of $78,843 has been approved for the Warren-Forest County Economic Opportunity Council's proposed Hospital Aide (or New Careers program), according to word received Tuesday from Senator Joseph S. Clark (D-Pa.).

The grant will be used to provide seven months training for 40 enrollees.

W. Robert Walsh, director of Community Action Affairs for the two-county EOC, said the grant was earmarked to recruit student attendants to serve at Warren State Hospital from the 13-counties served by the institution.

CAA offices in the other counties have all agreed to help in the recruitment to find 40 men or women, 35 years or older, to be trained by the hospital for six months and attend classes taught by members of the hospital staff. Walsh said that Dr. Robert Israel, WSH supervisor, was most enthusiastic about the proposed program.

The grant, according to the EOC director, also includes remedial reading for those recruits whose education may not qualify them at first to participate in the program.

Such training could well fill a void at WSH if successful. Following completion of the first six months period, the program would be rewritten and an application made for a like grant for another year.

If following the student attendant training, the individual is found employable, he goes on as an employment trainee and upon passing a civil service examination would be classified as an Attendant I.

For those not able to maintain employment trainee status for work in the wards as attendants, other branches of work at the hospital such as laundry, kitchen or maintenance would probably be obtainable.

Nixon Refuses Challenge

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller drew a strong negative reaction Tuesday to his proposal that Richard M. Nixon and the Republican National Committee join him in sponsoring a nationwide poll to help choose the strongest nominee.

Nixon had no immediate comment himself but a spokesman obviously commenting with Nixon's approval, dismissed the idea as "political gimmickery" and predicted the GOP convention would make its choice on the basis of the presidential primary — in which Nixon has fared well.

GOP National Chairman Ray Bliss quickly rejected the proposal, saying he wished to preserve "complete neutrality" in the presidential competition.

Rockefeller had no immediate comment either on Bliss' reaction or the remarks of Nixon's spokesman.

The New York governor complained that Nixon had been silent on the issues since the presidential primaries and argued that "this kind of candidacy cannot be good enough—or strong enough—for the Republican Party in 1968."

Rockefeller's dual move was regarded as an effort to blunt the long lead in delegate strength Nixon compiled through primary victories and alliances with party leaders in various states.

The governor issued his challenges during a campaign stop in St. Louis, before flying to Nashville to pursue his effort to convince Republicans that he is a more likely winner in November than Nixon.

Noting that less than four weeks remain before the GOP convention opens in Miami, Aug. 5, Rockefeller said it was time to consult the people on their choice of candidates and speak to them freely on the issues.

He said he had sent telegrams to Nixon and GOP National Chairman Ray Bliss urging they join him in commissioning "an unimpeachable polling organization" to test the respective strengths of Mr. Nixon and myself against any Democratic opponent.

New School Construction Bids Approved by Board

The Warren County School District Authority approved bids totaling $1,199,185 Tuesday for the construction of the Allegheny Valley Elementary School in Clarendon.

The actual signing of contracts must await completion of the financing of the project and approval by the Department of Public Instruction.

The general construction bid was awarded to Campbell Ellsworth Inc., Warren, for $843,583. The company's base bid was $833,333 to which was added sums for flooring, carpeting and surfacing of the play area.

David N. Brown & Son, Bradford, won the contract for heating and ventilating with a bid of $152,821. The authority received a lower offer from Trico Electric Co. but that company's bid did not fulfill legal requirements.

Brown & Son also won the plumbing contract. Their bid was $98,421.

The electrical construction contract was awarded to Keystone Electric, Erie, who submitted a bid of $104,360.

The authority approved the contract awards on the recommendation of the Warren County School District School Board of Education which met with the authority in a joint session.

Because the time required to finance construction will possibly exceed the normal time contractors hold to bids, the authority resolved to ask the contractors to extend that time from 45 to 75 days.

Derby Inspection Set

Official inspection for cars entered in the Warren County Soap Box Derby will be held at the Warren airport today at 6 p.m.

Officials will be checking the cars to make sure they meet design and safety standards established by the rules. The inspected racers will then be held by the officials until the day of the race.

Local race directors are Nick Petchel and Vic Miller. The race is being sponsored by Dan's Chevrolet, the Warren Jaycees and the Warren Times-Mirror and Observer.

The county winner will receive a $500 saving bond and a chance to race in the national competition in Akron, Ohio.

Johnson and Thieu To Plan Strategy At Honolulu Session

SAIGON (AP) — President Johnson and President Nguyen Van Thieu will meet in Honolulu about July 20 to discuss the problems of war and peace in Vietnam.

Thieu proposed the meeting after announcing Monday he was again forced to postpone this month's visit to Washington because of the threat of a new enemy offensive.

An announcement by Thieu's office Tuesday said the Honolulu conference will last for two days and will be devoted to the war and the preliminary peace talks in Paris between North Vietnam and the United States.

Press secretary George Christian said in San Antonio, Tex., the exact date will be set after Johnson confers with his advisers.

The announcement came as high South Vietnamese and U.S. officials were holding a series of conferences in Saigon. Everyone was close mouthed, but there were reports a major development might be near.

Some observers professed to see significance in the call by Ambassador Bui Diem, South Vietnam's observer at the Paris talks, for direct negotiations between North and South Vietnam.

"There are two protagonists, North and South Vietnam," Diem told a news conference in Paris. "If a solution is really wanted, the two must be together."

These talks would be political, he emphasized. He described the U.S., North Vietnamese talks as tactical because they are concerned with a halt to the bombing of North Vietnam and some North Vietnamese concession in return.

Diem said that before there could be a bombing pause North Vietnam must stop infiltrating troops into South Vietnam and put an end "to the aggression that is the very cause of the conflict."

At the same time, a change in emphasis in North Vietnam's propaganda drew the attention of officials.

Radio Hanoi accused the United States Tuesday of "trying to renegotiate" at Paris the 1954 Geneva agreement that ended the French-Indochina war.

Hanoi said U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, the chief U.S. negotiator, was "deliberately misinterpreting the spirit and fundamental principles" of the Geneva agreement, which it said guaranteed Vietnam's sovereignty, territorial integrity and freedom from outside interference.

Past Hanoi broadcasts have concentrated on ridiculing and rejecting the U.S. demand that North Vietnam stop infiltrating troops into South Vietnam in return for a halt to the bombardment of the North.

The latest broadcast made no reference to the U.S. attempts to bring about a mutual de-escalation of the war, but repeated the Geneva guarantees over and over.

The Paris peace talks are certain to rank high on the agenda when Johnson and Thieu meet.

Despite agreement to go along with the Paris talks, the Vietnamese feel the United States might agree to talks with the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front or a coalition government that would include Communists. The Saigon government violently opposes either course.

Thieu's announcement showed a concern for the enemy threats of new and bigger attacks in South Vietnam.

American Forces Block Enemy Approach to City

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Army and Navy teamed up Tuesday to block enemy forces moving up on Saigon for a possible new attack, long threatened by the Viet Cong and Hanoi.

Troops of the U.S. 9th Infantry Division turned back a force of unknown size in a skirmish in Long An Province 19 miles southwest of Saigon. The U.S. Command said 13 enemy soldiers were killed and there were no American casualties.

While the enemy unit was unidentified, it may have been part of the North Vietnamese 9th Division. Intelligence reports say a regiment of that division moved into Long An recently.

The intelligence reports place two of the enemy 9th's Infantry regiments and an artillery regiment, possibly 4,000 men, west of Saigon in menacing positions.

U.S. Navy river patrol boats and helicopters, only recently committed to the defense of Saigon, destroyed three enemy sampans on the Dong Nai River 11 miles east of Saigon.

Three enemy soldiers were killed and two Soviet-made 122 mm rocket launchers were captured. The launchers are similar to those used by the Viet Cong in past rocket attacks on Saigon.

Elsewhere, U.S. and South Vietnamese troops reported scattered contacts with small units in the endless sweeps around Saigon looking for enemy soldiers and weapons.

There was no letup in the air war in North Vietnam's southern panhandle, where U.S. pilots flew 140 missions Monday. "The attacking crews hit enemy lines of supply and military storage areas, reporting the destruction or damage of 11 supply and storage areas, 30 barges and nine trucks," a U.S. spokesman said.

"In addition, the movement of men and materials was slowed by cutting roads in 63 places and leaving five bridges unusable."

"The crews also ignited by secondary explosions, 20 petroleum and lubricant fires and 105 other sustained fires. They also silenced 28 weapons positions."

Missing Girl Discovered Wandering in Woods

CORRY, Pa. (AP) — A 26-hour search for a teen-age girl who disappeared from the back yard of her farm home ended Tuesday when she jumped up and down and caught the eye of a searching helicopter pilot.

The girl, Karen Sue Cooney, 15, was hospitalized, suffering from nothing more than exposure from a day of wandering in the heavily wooded, rocky country near her home.

State police said there was no evidence she was kidnapped. Trooper Walter Anderson said there was no explanation as to why she disappeared and what she had been doing.

Karen disappeared while hanging clothes Monday morning. Her mother said she heard Karen scream, rushed out to check and she was gone.

Hundreds of volunteer firemen, local and state police searched for the brown-haired, blue-eyed girl until she was spotted by helicopter pilot James Shearer of Blairsville, Pa. at 12:45 p.m.

Shearer said Karen was jumping up and down and waving at him when he spotted her near Leisure Lake about three miles from her home.

She was hospitalized at Corry Memorial Hospital. Her doctor said she was in good condition and would probably leave Wednesday. He said she had not been bruised or scratched.

State police said they talked to her briefly but she did not say what had happened. They planned to talk to her again Wednesday.

Meanwhile, 25 miles south of this northwestern Pennsylvania town, another search was started for a 19-year-old girl who was last seen walking into dense woods behind a restaurant.

She was the third girl reported missing in northwestern Pennsylvania in two days, but state police said there was no connection between the cases.

The latest missing girl was Edith Anne MacGeary of Titusville. Troopers said she walked into the woods along Pennsylvania 8 south of Titusville about 6:30 a.m.

Three troopers and members of the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department searched for her.

In Erie, state police picked up Sheila Oldach, 14, as she walked along Interstate 90 Monday night.

She told them she had been abducted from her home by a man. An investigation was started.

Canadian Villagers Erect Impromptu Sanitary Dam

CENTREVILLE, N.B. (AP) — Appalled by the stench of rotting fish in a polluted river from Maine, Canadian villagers threw up a dam Tuesday to block the flow near the international boundary.

Five bulldozers called in by Centreville activists mounded earth and stone across the 60-foot-wide stream, a tributary of the St. John River that is known in Maine as the Presque Isle and in Canada as the Presque Isle.

Two Royal Canadian Mounted Police stood watch "in case of trouble," but there was no interference—official or otherwise—in this impromptu creation of a sanitary cordon within 30 yards of American soil. The resultant lake should back up into Maine.

The flurry recalled the Aroostook War of 1859, a bloodless row between Americans and Canadians about boundary lines that eventually led to the Webster-Ashburton treaty of 1842, which drew the U.S.-Canadian border in this area.

The river rises south of Fort Fairfield, Maine, and runs southeast to the St. John at Florenceville, N.B.

Centreville, a lumbering and potato-growing center, is on the river about three miles east of the border. "The water is so bad we couldn't even use it for fire fighting," said Robert Cairnes, a Centreville spokesman. "It would foul our pumps." Cairnes said the river, once a thriving trout stream, had become "nothing more than a sewer" since industrial plants opened operations near it in Maine.

Float Vandalized

While thanking all who gave over 300 hours to construct the Starbuck Cub Scout Pack 16 float for the Fourth of July parade, cub master Richard Newark stated that the float was parked on Fourth avenue after the parade and within an hour had been struck by vandals. Stolen were parts and pieces including the flag made of red, white and blue handkerchiefs. The vandalism wrecked plans to enter the Starbuck parade and others and also the possibility of selling the float as a unit. Any information leading to return of the flag will be rewarded.

Attempts To Increase University Funds Defeated

HARRISBURG (AP) — The House narrowly defeated Tuesday an attempt to increase the Pittsburgh and Temple university appropriations by $11 million while the Senate was approving a bill to legalize Sunday liquor sales in the state.

At the same time, House Majority and Minority Leaders Lee A. Donaldson, R-Allegheny, and Herbert Fineman, D-Philadelphia, disclosed the details of a new legislative pension bill introduced in the chamber. An amendment offered by Rep. James J. A. Gallagher, D-Berks, to increase Temple's appropriation by $7 million to almost $39 million was beaten, 89-110.

Gallagher said university officials advised him that tuition could not be retained at $450 per Pennsylvania student without the additional funds. House Appropriations Chairman H. Jack Seltzer, R-Lebanon, however, had an amendment increasing the appropriation by $2 million inserted into the bill. Gallagher said even this would still necessitate a $100 tuition increase.

Irvis' amendment to jump Pitt's $32 million appropriation by $4.5 million fell, 92-99. The Pitt bill states that tuition shall be increased by $150 per year which Irvis attempted to eliminate.

The Temple bill was advanced into position for a final vote. Pitt's appropriation, along with $59.2 million for Pennsylvania State University and $8.1 million for the University of Pennsylvania, were approved finally by the House and sent to Gov. Shafer.

The controversial Sunday sales bill passed the Senate on a vote of 30-19 and went to the House. There was no debate. It would authorize Sunday sales between 1 and 10 p.m. in counties where the voters approve the practice in a referendum. The measure applies only to establishments which record 55 per cent of their gross receipts from food sales.

Seventeen Democrats and 13 Republicans voted in favor of the bill with 14 Republicans and five Democrats opposed. Present law permits only hotels in Pittsburgh and Philadelphia to sell beer and liquor on Sundays.

The Pension bill introduced with bipartisan support generally followed the pattern of previously published reports.

It would have future legislative pensions based on the average salary of a lawmaker over a five-year period.

The measure was designed to adjust legislative pensions in line with a $1,200 increase the General Assembly voted itself three years ago on its old $6,000 salary.

The bill would pay pension benefits to legislators who retire this year on the basis of a $7,200 salary, even though they had been contributing on the basis of $6,000 for the past two years.

It would also change the eligibility requirement to a flat six years regardless of age.

Present law permits a legislator who has turned 50 to qualify for full benefits regardless of years of service. Legislators under 50 had to serve four terms to qualify.

Low Income Housing Issue Still Unsettled

JAMESTOWN, N.Y. — The Jamestown Planning Commission has yet to reach a decision on the proposed housing project for low income senior citizens at its regularly scheduled meeting Tuesday afternoon.

The commission discussed the project briefly and adjourned the meeting until Friday afternoon.

DPW director Joseph E. Veale called for the adjourned meeting so more of the commission members could vote. Those who were unable to attend Tuesday's meeting included commission chairman Hugh A. Carr Jr., John W. Thompson and Fred J. Cusimano. All three were at the initial meeting of the commission last Saturday.

Vice chairman Stanley N. Lundine who presided at the meeting Tuesday said he, like the other commission members, favors such a housing project but seriously questioned the downtown location. Mayor Charles B. Magnuson said all senior citizens groups which he has contacted favor the project of converting a portion of the former Hotel Jamestown into one and two-bedroom apartments. Lundine and other commissioners say they feel Jamestown's senior citizens deserve better consideration than to be confined to the upper floors of a building like a former hotel. "Several of us favor," Lundine said, a low profile type housing project for our senior citizens to be located on the edge of the business district."

business district."

The planning commission must give its stamp of approval before any further action on the project, which will be financed by local money and later purchased by the federal government, can take place. Should the commission not approve the project the city council may then override the commission and vote the project through but a three-fourths vote will be required.

Commission chairman Carr announced Sunday he had polled the commission following Saturday's meeting and that a majority favored the project. This statement, however, was sharply rebutted by four commission members who said they were not contacted by Carr regarding their opinion.

Pentagon Denies Troops Couldn't Use Weapons

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon denied Tuesday that federalized troops were prohibited from using their rifles to defend themselves during April riots in Washington and Baltimore.

A former National Guard commander said last Wednesday the troops were "not only told they could not load their weapons, but they were told that they could not even use their rifles as clubs to protect themselves or stop looting."

Maj. Gen. A. A. Sproul, former commander of the Virginia-Maryland National Guard (29th Division) said he resigned his commission because "I will have no part of protecting lawlessness."

The Pentagon, in response to questions, said that neither the federal task force commanders on the scene nor the Army issued such an order.

Troops used during the riots were operating under a policy of minimum force and were not authorized to load their weapons except under order of an officer or if their lives were threatened, a spokesman said. Arrests of

Controversy Continues To Rage Over Antiballistic Missile System

(Editor's note—The administration has turned back the first wave of congressional efforts to block construction of an expensive antiballistic missile defense, but the controversy continues. With Vietnam costing $25 billion-plus a year, with poverty a national issue, are antimissiles really necessary? The following explores the issue.)

WASHINGTON (AP) — Until last fall the old adage about the weather would seem to have applied to the missile threat: Everybody talked a lot but nobody seemed to be doing anything about it.

Australian Army Rejects Gunman's Offer To Serve

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — The Australian army Tuesday night turned down gunman Wally Mellish's plea for a chance to join its fighting force in Vietnam and police took Mellish to a mental hospital, his seven-day armed siege over and his new bride facing a prostitution charge.

The opportunity to state his case at Ingleburn army camp was the condition on which the 22-year-old former mental patient and convicted car thief gave himself up and released his shotgun bride and their infant son from semicaptivity Monday.

Mellish's 19-year-old bride, Beryl Muddle, whom he married last Wednesday in the middle of his siege, and the couple's 11-week-old son Leslie, had been kept hostage for 7 days, 6 hours and 10 minutes when Mellish gave up at 3:09 p.m.

Wearing a khaki shirt and trousers, Mellish emerged from the suburban house, where he had stocked an arsenal, and carried the child to a mobile police communications headquarters that had been set up nearby.

Then Beryl and the baby, who appeared well, were taken to her parents. The police did not enforce a warrant for her arrest for failing to pay a $42 fine for prostitution.

Mellish then drove off to Ingleburn with Norman Allan, police commissioner of New South Wales, to see if the army would have him.

Allan had been criticized earlier for not using force to end the siege. He was one of the witnesses at Mellish's wedding last Wednesday. It was performed by the Rev. Clyde Paton, chaplain at Long Bay Jail, who talked to Mellish for three hours before he announced he was giving up.

The spokesman said there was no order prohibiting a soldier from using his rifle to strike someone attacking him.

On the self-defense aspect, the Pentagon spokesman said the soldiers were given a list of special orders, including one that said: "I will not load or fire my weapon except when authorized by an officer in person; when authorized in advance by an officer in certain specific conditions; or when required to save my life."

On each day, invitations have been extended to professional groups throughout Western Pennsylvania and any interested person is welcome to attend.

Lecturers for the seminars will be two distinguished scientists from Tennessee, whose studies in the physiological and psychological features of alcoholism have attracted widespread attention. David H. Knott, M.D., Ph.D., one of the discussants, is Medical Director of the Alcoholic Rehabilitation Unit at the Tennessee Psychiatric Institute and Hospital and Assistant Professor of Physiology and Biophysics at the University of Tennessee College of Basic Medical Sciences. James D. Beard, Ph.D., is Director of the Alcohol Research Center at Tennessee Psychiatric Hospital and Institute and is also Assistant Professor at the University. Subjects to be discussed by the two doctors are the history of alcoholism, chemistry, treatment, and therapeutic effectiveness. Because alcoholism has become a critical public health problem in America and because it is a progressive and complex disease which is estimated to have affected more than 20 million persons in the nation, the Warren State Hospital Seminar is considered to be an event of much importance.

The two-day seminar is being sponsored at Warren by the Pfizer Laboratories of New York City.

On Sept. 18, 1967 the Johnson administration did something about it—and the way it proceeded is still kicking up debate.

Robert S. McNamara, then secretary of defense, told the world the administration had concluded there were "marginal grounds" for deciding the United States should build a $5-billion antimissile defense.

If McNamara announced the decision to deploy the Sentinel system with something less than enthusiasm—and some believe he did—he has company. There has developed a remarkable lack of consensus that Sentinel is the answer for the missiles Red China will have in the 1970s or the ones the Soviet Union already has.

Depending on the viewpoint, Sentinel is too little, too much, too ambitious, too short-sighted, too provocative or too timid.

The Joint Chiefs of Staff recommended a $20-billion system of interceptor rockets to defend, as a starter, the nation in general and 25 major cities in particular.

Others, including Jerome Wiesner, who was science adviser to President John F. Kennedy, consider it folly to build an expensive defense when enemy missiles could always be designed to overwhelm it.

Nuclear hawks in Congress, who had pushed missile defense on the grounds that the Soviets were pushing it, wanted a $40-billion system to try to fend off the hundreds of missiles that

Opposition To Block Nominations Shrinks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen said Tuesday the bloc of his GOP colleagues pledged to fight President Johnson's Supreme Court nominations has shrunk from the original 19 to 15.

Dirksen, who earlier had mentioned two defections, said two more senators told him they plan to vote to confirm Justice Abe Fortas as chief justice and Circuit Judge Homer Thornberry to fill the vacancies created when Chief Justice Earl Warren retired.

The GOP leader, who opposes efforts to block their confirmation, told a news conference opponents to the nominations "are beginning to vanish into thin air."

But Dirksen declined to name any of the four he said reversed themselves. None of the original 19 has announced a change in position and a spokesman for the bloc's leader, Sen. Robert P. Griffin of Michigan, said no one had asked to have his name removed from the list.

A key point, the aide said, is

Carl C. Machemer Co., 401 Main st., Sugar Grove, is now an authorized distributor of the products of The Union-Card Division, United Twist Drill Corp., of Massachusetts. They include twist drills, reamers, end mills, milling cutters, hobs, taps and dies.

Machemer recently completed an expansion program that doubled warehouse space. Other lines handled by the company include National Grinding Wheel Co. Inc., Simonds Saw & Steel, Republic Rubber Co., Alomite, United States Diamond Tool Co., Ry-Pro Tool Co. Skill Corp., Ciesco Tools and Fittings and Vanguard Abrasives Inc. products.

would be launched in a nuclear war.

Others in Congress raised their voices in opposition later, recommending the billions be spent somewhere else: for the fight against poverty, decaying cities, and other domestic problems.

The question of whether the United States should proceed to deploy Sentinel, and if so to what extent, is expected to continue as an issue in the presidential campaign.

As it now stands the administration lists three reasons for building Sentinel.

The prime reason given is that the "thin" antimissile system will make the country virtually immune to the sort of low-scale, unsophisticated type of nuclear attack China may be able to mount in the mid 1970s.

In the Pentagon there is a widely accepted belief China is apt to be more dangerous with only a few intercontinental ballistic missiles than it will be later with a larger, more secure force.

The thinking is that in a future crisis China might be tempted to launch its few atomic rockets rather than risk losing them to a U.S. first-strike.

The Pentagon calculates that Sentinel would be able to intercept most if not all Chinese ICBMs of the 1970s, thus limiting U.S. deaths from any attack to from less than one million to zero.

The new secretary of defense, Clark M. Clifford, says Sentinel also would limit damage from an accidental ICBM launch from "any sources" as well as allow the United States to defend its Minuteman offensive missiles if that seemed prudent.

not how senators will vote on confirmation but what they would do if the leadership seeks a two-thirds majority vote needed to break the filibuster Griffin has threatened to block Senate action.

The Senate Judiciary Committee will open hearings on the nominations Thursday and Dirksen predicted they would go to the floor for action shortly after the committee completes its work.

Dirksen again predicted that a filibuster would not materialize and said he is more confident than ever that Fortas and Thornberry will be confirmed.

In the Senate, Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., said the Republicans "just ought to stop playing partisan politics" with Johnson's court nominations.

Morse called for confirmation of Fortas and Thornberry. Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., told the Senate Congress should be willing to remain in session until the court matter is resolved, adding, "We ought to stay here and perform our duties, conventions or no conventions."

Congressional leaders have set an Aug. 3 adjournment goal to enable members to attend the national political conventions.

Three Pitt Scientists Awarded Research Grants

Three Pitt University scientists have been awarded 100,767 in research grants from the American Cancer Society.

Richard Abrams, Ph.D., received $27,639 to inquire into how mammalian cells synthesize nucleic acid. The recipient of earlier ACS grants, Abrams is attempting to clarify the chemistry of the growth and duplication of cells of mammals, thus adding to the understanding of cell growth.

An additional grant of $27,218 went to Emmanuel Farber, I.D., Ph.D., for research to find out how the molecular structure of a liver becomes changed before an actual tumor appears. The experiments are done at selected stages in the development of the tumor, which is caused by two carcinogens.

Adding to the knowledge of control of the immune response that is being explored by the heart transplanters, Samuel B. Salvin, Ph.D., was awarded $45,910 for research into immune mechanisms in animals and people. This will enable him to add much needed basic knowledge to the immunology field, especially in the field of cancer treatment.

The three grants to Pitt researchers were among 161 grants approved by the American Cancer Society, all totaling $6,205,998. The Society's research program is administered from the national office, with over $18,000,000 invested over the past year, of which Pennsylvania received $1,461,897.

Police Duties Last Month

Borough police last month responded to 664 telephone calls while officers answered 170 police calls.

There were 32 minor investigations and 16 major. Stolen goods were recovered in the amount of $25 and police guarded money in transit 13 times.

Two fire calls were answered and 28 doors found opened or unlocked. One funeral was escorted and two special events policed. Seven dogs were referred to the county humane society and 13 transients or overnight lodgers accommodated. Parking tickets collected, fines collected, bicycle license, parking meter collections and mayor's licenses, brought in $3,438.62 during June.

Union Asks Labor Negotiators Fight for Fringe Benefits

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A big United Steelworkers Union local called on its labor negotiators Tuesday to fight for higher pensions, earlier retirement and a cost of living clause.

"Without the cost of living attached to our pensions and wages, we are accepting a bucket of ice cubes in 90 degree weather that melt away like sand through the sieve of time," said Local 1408 of McKeesport, Pa., in a printed statement.

It was circulated at the bargaining sessions where the union is trying to reach a new labor contract before the old one expires Aug. 1.

The local, a 5,000-man group at U.S. Steel Corp.'s tube works, used printed petitions to win pension concessions in the last contract. It's president, Anthony Tomko, is one of the most vocal local presidents in the USW.

This time, the local said, it wants provisions that allow workers to retire after 20 years of service with a minimum pension of $200 a month. The present contract allows retirement after 30 years of service with $150 in pension.

The petition, printed on union stationery, said negotiators should also insist on a cost of living clause on both wages and pensions.

It should be based on the federal government's consumer price index and the gross national product, the local said. "If all of our leaders believe pensions are good for them, contract. It's president, Anthony Tomko, is one of the most vocal local presidents in the USW.

Gun Control Legislation Sent to House Floor

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Rules Committee sent to the House floor Tuesday for action later this week, with the door open to amendments, a bill to ban the interstate sale of rifles, shotguns and ammunition.

The vote to open it to amendments was 10 to 5. It came after another concession to some members, an 8-7 vote ruling that an amendment proposed by Rep. Bob Casey, D-Tex., is germane to the bill and could be offered on the House floor.

Casey's proposal would make it a federal crime subject to a mandatory 10-year sentence on the first offense and 25 years for a second offense for a person convicted in federal or state court of a criminal offense while armed.

Included would be conviction for robbery, assault, murder, rape, burglary, kidnapping or homicide, but not involuntary manslaughter.

The bill had virtually gained a committee green light Monday when Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., prime backer of President Johnson's proposal for gun registration, agreed to fight any effort to add that provision to this bill.

The measure as it goes to the House would extend to long guns the same ban the omnibus crime law imposed recently on hand guns—mail orders or over-the-counter sales to out-of-state residents, persons under 18, narcotic addicts, convicts and the mentally ill.

Johnson's proposal for registration of firearms and licensing of their owners could be offered on the floor but Celler's vow to fight it was seen as virtually killing any chances it might have there.

However, the registration proposal gained more steam in the Senate, possibly setting the scene for a clash there and in any Senate-House conference that writes the final bill.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., said despite the House Rules Committee stand "I most certainly do" think the Senate should try

Half Billion Dollar Capital Construction Budget Released

HARRISBURG (AP) — A half-billion-dollar capital construction budget was released to the House floor Tuesday with an additional $11 million of building projects incorporated for Cheyney State College.

The accelerated construction authorization was included in the 1967-69 building plan with the approval of the Shafer administration following a state inquiry into a three-day student revolt last March at the predominantly Negro college.

William D. Johnson, a special assistant to Gov. Shafer who headed the investigation, said his findings showed that the student protest involved only academic matters without racial undertones.

Johnson, a Negro, said: "What the students were complaining about was primarily a poor curriculum structure, lack of teacher and lack of adequate cultural and social facilities."

"Although I suppose it may be difficult to convince the students of this, a number of the projects we recommended were in the works for some time. 'What we've done is to accelerate everything by a year or so. These facilities are needed. None of the other state colleges have the flagrant problems Cheyney has."

Last March, students numbering at various times between 50 and 300 seized the college's administration building and held it for two and a half days. The school has a student enrollment of 1,800.

The project inserted into the biennial capital budget authorizes the General State Authority to begin construction at its discretion. It normally takes the GSA five to six years to complete a project after it has been authorized.

The accelerated construction activity is in addition to the $3.6 million originally earmarked for Cheyney in Shafer's original building plan.

The major construction additions proposed for the Delaware County college included: $2.2 million for a social science building; $1.8 million for a dining hall; $1.5 million for a library; and $1.1 million for a home economics building.

The accelerated program also provided $800,000 for a new administration building; $500,000 for an addition to the industrial arts building; $950,000 for utilities and related facility expansion and $500,000 for new recreation areas, including permanent bleachers.

Much of the campus expansion is keyed to the acquisition of a 128-acre farm which adjoins the campus to the north. Some $248,000 was earmarked in the original Cheyney budget for this purchase.

Other features in the expanded plan would authorize $1.7 million in renovation work for three existing facilities—Pennsylvania Hall, the Emien complex and Humphreys Hall. All three projects had been programmed for the 1969-71 budget.

Last month, the General Assembly approved a $792,000 increase in Cheyney's regular operating appropriation.

Johnson said $300,000 is to go for recruitment of 25 new teachers; $80,000 for non-professional positions; $35,000 for maintenance and equipment, and the balance for immediate renovations.

A representative of the Department of Public Instruction, meanwhile, recommended a number of changes in the college's academic program, including initiation of courses in black culture.

Other recommendations touched on strengthening the college's counseling staff and liberalizing and modernizing the school library's operating procedures.

Meteor Crater, Ariz., is the world's first proven meteorite crater.

On the first air mail flight, the pilot was expected to fly from Washington to Philadelphia. He landed in a small Maryland town to ask the way, nosed over and was told he had flown 25 miles in the wrong direction.

According to the writer, he could be in error as to the number who participated on the first tee, but feels he is correct in it being over 70, his father John Smith and himself among them. He also recalls Clare J. Crary, of 508 Liberty street and Bert Meacham, of 12 Crescent Park as being two others to take to the links on June 1, 50 years ago.

Mr. Meacham, incidentally, with his partner, Hugh Logan of Youngsville remain ardent golfers and are first on the course in the spring and the last to reluctantly put away their clubs when real winter sets in.

Recounted is the story of one prominent local resident, who in driving took a mighty swing at the ball which failed to get off the first tee, he having topped it so it rolled but a few feet.

"I can see him now," wrote Smith, "as he turned away, shaking his head and saying to himself, 'Too much gallery—too much gallery!'"

June 1, 1968 marked the 50th anniversary of Conewago Valley Country Club and from William Galbraith Smith, AB, Genealogical Research in Washington, D. C., come a few reminiscences. Mr. Smith is the brother of Richard G. Smith, of 301 Market st., Warren.

Smith notes that the late Horace Crary was first president of the club and it was he who first teed off the day the club opened. "It was quite an unusual start, for more than 70 golfers assembled on the first tee and everyone drove off before splitting up in small groups to continue, after the drive, in that fashion."

"As you can well imagine, it took some time to continue until the final two some, threesome or foursome finished."

A Champion; Win or Lose

For over three decades the Soap Box Derby has provided boys with the opportunity to prove their skill, initiative and competitive spirit in a wholesome, challenging competition.

Since the first coasting race was held in the mid-1930s, some 1.2 million youngsters have participated in the Derby, which today spans the entire United States and reaches across oceans to such places as West Germany, the Philippines and Okinawa.

Coupled with this tremendous growth is the establishment of the Soap Box Derby as a bona fide institution, commanding respect and admiration for the service it has rendered to youth all over the world.

As is the case with any great institution, the Soap Box Derby does not strive or profess to be an end in itself. Of course, there are the immediate, tangible benefits to be derived from participating in coasting competition.

Any youngster who makes the big decision to enter the Derby and then lives up to the sacrifices and work that building a racer requires is, in our eyes, a winner without question.

He has exercised self-discipline and proved his reliability. Win or lose on race day, he is a true champion.

So we sincerely say to every Warren County boy entered in the coming 1968 Soap Box Derby, the race results are not what really matter. The important thing is that you have clearly indicated that you are a future adult of the highest caliber.

Struggle Over Priorities

NEW YORK — The United States and the Soviet Union are beginning to look beyond Vietnam. Both are holding to their firm positions on the Paris peace talks, but both are feeling the pressure on the home front and acting as if the conflict is in its closing phases.

This, of course, could take a long time, but there is a perceptible change in official private conversation. At least, few officials on both sides seem to believe that the talks will break off or the fighting return to the high and dangerous level of last spring.

There is now very little speculation in Washington about a "protracted war." Though the casualties remain high, and there will no doubt be more and sudden flurries of military activity for tactical and diplomatic reasons, there is almost no talk now about reviving the bombing above the 19th Parallel in North Vietnam.

On the other side, the Soviets have reopened the dialogue about disarmament. The propaganda goes on, but it has lost much of its sting, and North Vietnam's differences with China over the peace negotiations seem to have made it easier for Moscow to talk seriously about accommodations outside of South East Asia.

Meanwhile, a debate of great significance is developing quietly within the United States government over the rival claims of domestic and foreign policy in the postwar federal budget. The pressures to end the war are now gradually shifting to demands for substantial increases in social and economic spending at home. And these pressures are producing the counter-argument that even when the fighting stops in Vietnam, the domestic budget cannot be increased substantially without imperiling the foreign and defense interests of the nation.

For example, the under secretary of the treasury, Joseph W. Barr, emphasized the other day that it will be "extremely difficult" to get defense spending down in the near future; traditional civilian government programs will cost more as population grows; and much of the revenue growth that we can expect from a growing economy, "must be used to reduce our current budget deficits."

The next president, said Barr, will not have the enormous balance of payments surpluses of the past. He will not have a large trade surplus, and other nations will not be willing to hold large amounts of dollars in their reserves.

Instead, Barr added, the next president will be confronted by urgent demands for more education, more medical care, more housing, more jobs, and more money to deal with the urgent urban problems of transportation, pollution and slum clearance. He estimates that moving from the current level of about 1,400,000 housing starts to 2,600,000 will place an additional $20 billion strains on our credit markets every year.

Vice President Humphrey, who thinks he may be the next president, is obviously taking the domestic spending line in his campaign talks. He is talking more and more about "a Marshall Plan for the cities," which could easily absorb a $20 billion Marshall Plan every year, and his task forces are concentrating more on domestic spending than on defense spending. But there are other views in the administration.

"If the Defense Department is to maintain its current mission in the world," says Secretary Barr, "I would seriously doubt that any sizeable reduction can be made in the defense budget in the foreseeable future." But this is precisely the question that is now coming over the horizon.

Is the Defense Department to "maintain its current mission in the world?" Sen. McCarthy suggests that the answer to this, if he is president, will be "no." Vice President Humphrey has allowed us to assume that it will, and that somehow he will find the money to deal effectively with the cities as well. But of course, this is what is being seriously questioned by officials who are more interested in the facts than in the politics of the problem.

"We have been fighting this war on a very, very lean budget," says Barr. "There is no evidence that we have piled up surplus stocks inordinance, ammunition, aircraft or naval vessels. On the contrary, I would estimate that a cessation of hostilities would result in great pressures to rebuild stocks in military supplies and equipment to a more acceptable level."

It will be interesting to hear more on this from the candidates in the coming months. Whose acceptable level is to be built up—the Pentagon's or the people's?

JIM BISHOP

He Couldn't Speak

The fingers were like cold cocktail frankfurters and the face was like a bulldog. The fingers were nervous. They skated figure eights between themselves. The granite face looked out at a whole lake of diners around lily pad tables.

Andrew Twinski began to feel scared. They were all looking at him.

All of Toledo, Ohio, that matters — the mayor, the bankers, the officers of Owens Illinois, the merchants — were in the main ballroom of the Commodore Perry to honor a patrolman, Andy was retiring after 46 years of walking the pavement. He sat up on the dais with Mrs. Twinski, a good looking woman with 16 grandchildren and, every time Andy patted her hand under the table, I had the feeling that he wasn't giving consolation, he was asking for it.

Whatever it takes to be a good cop, Andy Twinski has it. He has patrolled the same downtown street corner since 1922, when it was a thrill to stop a car just to size it up. He has a chest like a keg of beer and a jaw like a cemetery headstone. Andy was on that street corner when the temperature was 20 below zero and he couldn't peel the whistle off his lips.

He was out there when the summer sun caromed off the concrete and blinded his eyes. He never made sergeant and he didn't care. Being a patrolman was good enough for him. Some of the fuzzless kids he helped to break in passed Andy and they became deputy-chiefs and chiefs. They were all out there today watching him turn in badge number one of the Toledo police department.

In his 46 years, Twinski was on sick leave four days. I suspect that these illnesses were acquired at Polish weddings, which is where the word poleaxed comes from. He brought up three daughters, managed to live within a cop's pay, and didn't moonlight.

I came a long way to be the speaker at Twinski's retirement. I didn't know what to say, because it is embarrassing when you are in the presence of a man who is the best of his breed. If you say he's great, it sounds like bunk. If you crack jokes, you're out of order.

Andy always called all women "Sis," even old ladies of 80 and better. If a pedestrian jaywalked, he pushed his chest up close to the face of the offender and said: "If I ever catch you doing that again, mister, I'm going to give you a hard look." Once, a young cop caught a group of armed robbers, and, for a moment, it was a question of who had caught whom.

Twinski charged onto the scene — one outfit — and slammed some heads together until they sounded like bowling balls hitting the pocket. The newspapers tried to put Andy in the story and he said: "Oh, no." He pointed to the young cop. "It's his case. It's his arrest. I'm just helping a brother officer."

Andy is no better than his city. Toledo is 400,000 people on the western edge of Lake Erie, sitting between Detroit and Cleveland. Few cities have as much civic pride as Toledo. It is much more than the expression "Holy Toledo!" or bathroom scales. It's a big coal port on the Great Lakes, a bustling industrial town that meets competition with a broad grin, an outstretched right hand, and a left that will flatten you.

The merchants of Toledo gave Andy a check for $2,500 and some awards. The children he once helped across the street are grandparents. They were out front, and some had spilled out of the ballroom and into a big room across the hall. The mayor spoke. The chief of police spoke. The toastmaster spoke. I spoke. None of it mattered because what Toledo was trying to say was that Andy Twinski was very important to the city and they wish they had a thousand more like him, but no body knew how to say it.

Then they called on the cop and he got up and said he couldn't speak. He uttered some of Lake Erie, the words of Pharaoh, and he started a car with a dying battery. Andy wasn't born to speak. He was born to do. The affluent merchants out front were pulling for the patrolman to say something and the ladies began to limp forth. I looked up at him and I realized that he had given up speaking with his head, this stuff was coming out of the heart.

"I don't know why — honest I don't — why you people are doing this for me. I just put in a lot of time on the police force. The only thing I can say is, in all those years I was ready to give my life for you, if it had to be." He pointed down to the table to his wife. "For her too"...

Effectiveness of Lobbyists

WASHINGTON — The natural gas industry's victory for a lax gas pipeline safety bill, in the House of Representatives last week, illustrates not only the effectiveness of astute lobbyists but also a problem facing the White House.

Lyndon Johnson has done more for public protection than any President in history — ranging from auto safety to truth-in-lending to consumer protection. He is heartily for a strong gas pipeline safety bill to protect the public from the increasing number of explosions occurring in the huge 700,000-mile network of pipes, some of them aging, which crisscross the nation.

However, lurking in the maze of our federal bureaucracy is one potent bureaucrat who is not so concerned. And one reason for the lobbyists' victory on pipeline safety was the foot-dragging of John Sweeney, Assistant Secretary of Transportation.

At a time when the White House needed to make a drive to defeat lobbyists' pressure on Capitol Hill, Sweeney was taking a cram bar review course to be admitted to the D. C. bar. Furthermore, his chief assistant, Donald Radler, was on vacation when he should have been working on Capitol Hill.

Finally, Sweeney had been holding press conferences stating that the weak House version of the pipeline bill was satisfactory, and the very same time Sweeney's chief, Secretary of Transportation Alan Boyd, was presenting the bill as a "dangerous deception."

Earlier, Sweeney's private affection for the pipeline industry angered the relatively calm Joseph Califano in the White House. Califano berated him over the telephone. However, last week Sweeney apparently had forgotten Califano's bawling out.

The Assistant Secretary of Transportation was appointed to his job from an excellent background. He did well as assistant to the late Sen. Pat McNamara of Michigan, Democratic, a crusader for the public. Sweeney also did well with the Appalachian Regional Commission. But recently he has nursed a private ambition to become governor of Michigan, though with Michigan now leaning Republican he may set up a law practice in Washington instead.

At any rate, Sweeney has consistently undercut his boss, Secretary Boyd, to say nothing of his chief in the White House. Here is part of his record:

Sweeney argued that Secretary Boyd should not undertake a two-year study of the auto insurance industry, which has hiked rates on so many motorists and canceled out on others. Boyd overruled him and went ahead.

On the other hand, Sweeney succeeded in persuading Secretary Boyd to go easy on the auto industry in disclosing cost of safety features required under new auto safety legislation.

Sweeney telephoned the staff of the Democratic Study Group in the House of Representatives, stating that the Transportation Department was backing the highway authorization bill which provides for super highways in the District of Columbia. This is the bill favored by the highway lobbyists but vigorously opposed by Secretary Boyd.

Sweeney has refused to push his supporters into setting up the first oil pipeline safety standards, long overdue.

Sweeney is against the Transportation Department's plan to build a prototype safety automobile equipped with an anti-pollution muffler to kill exhaust fumes, even though the law requires the Transportation Department to build such a safety car.

Sweeney told a group of state officials not to worry about the federal government imposing a 10 per cent penalty by withholding highway funds if the states didn't carry out their obligation to set up highway safety programs. Congress has passed a law requiring states to meet federal safety standards if they want to continue to get full federal funds. Sweeney belittled this requirement. His boss, Secretary Boyd, was anything but pleased. However, the damage was already done.

Sweeney is a charming, intelligent individual, which makes him all the more effective. He is one bureaucrat whose ambition to become a lawyer or enter Michigan politics should be furthered by President Johnson.

RACE RIOTS — To keep racial violence from exploding again this summer, Vice President Humphrey has urged privately that the National Guard be called to active duty to augment the police in troubled cities. He believes guardsmen should be given special police and riot training. Humphrey was impressed with the effectiveness of police and guardsmen in suppressing trouble in Washington following the shutdown of Resurrection City. Riots can be avoided, he believes, if the authorities move fast enough.

UNWISE ECONOMY — The Joint Chiefs of Staff have complained to Secretary of Defense Clark Clifford that cutbacks by Congress have already caused serious military shortages around the world. In Europe and Korea, none of the armed services have enough spare parts to keep their equipment operating. The Navy has complained that ship repairs have fallen dangerously behind schedule. The Air Force doesn't have enough skilled manpower to operate its modern equipment. The new budget cuts demanded by Congress, the Joint Chiefs warn, could jeopardize our military preparedness.

The Community Theater

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What makes one community theater thrive while others fail? The ingredients for success are being demonstrated in Hollywood these weeks as the American Conservatory Theater offers two plays at the Huntington Hartford Theater.

The San Francisco-based repertory company is making its first full-scale invasion of Southern California and audiences have been cheering the offerings of Moliere's "Tartuffe" and

Dylan Thomas' "Under Milkwood."

The reception echoes the sentiments of critics. The conventionally initiated A.C.T. has been called "The most prolific and probably the most exciting repertory company in the U.S.," by Newsweek, Walter Kerr of the New York Times has commented, "It's just possible that the A.C.T. may revolutionize American theater practice." Cecil Smith of the Los Angeles Times called the original premiere of the company's "Tartuffe" "the most exciting evening I ever spent in the theater."

Why is the A.C.T. so good? The question was put to red-bearded William Bushnell, the general manager.

"One reason is the talent of Bill Ball," he replied, referring to the director whose unorthodox staging has brought new vitality to standard plays. "A second factor is the quality of the acting company; actors want to work with Bill. Now that we're a going concern, the concept of training new performers is paying dividends in ensemble playing."

"Another factor in our favor is the relative youth of the company. The average performer is around 28 or 29 and the staff

Struggling With the Branches

HARRISBURG — The question oftentimes is asked as to why Pennsylvania's Governors have such a difficult time "whipping through" administration legislation — while their Washington counterparts seemingly move with much greater ease.

At first blush the query may seem somewhat absurd; there's no comparison, and all that sort of thing.

Actually the question is a valid one — and most timely; timely from two standpoints: (1) Pennsylvania's Legislature and Congress are both in session, and (2) both Governor Shafer and President Johnson have been and are in the throes of "struggling" with their respective legislative branches.

It is the difference in the degree or intensity of the "struggle" that is striking, and in fact the answer as to "why" Pennsylvania's chief executives always seem to have a bit of a scrap on their hands — while the President rides toounds with his eagles at full bay.

The answer for the most part lies in whether or not administration forces adequately control both houses of the Congress or in the case of Pennsylvania, the State Legislature.

For a look at what has been happening in Washington, a brief check of the record is interesting. Since the late Democratic President John F. Kennedy assumed office in 1961, and (Democratic) President Johnson in 1963, both houses of Congress have been solidly in the Democratic column — in fact more overwhelmingly so with each passing year.

Consequently, it has been necessary for Mr. Johnson merely to lean over the winning well. His desires usually have been carried out by his legislative colleagues of the same political faith who run the congressional show (after proper for-public-consumption statesmanlike "debate", of course).

Naturally his wish isn't granted in every instance but the score has been high — that is, it had been until recently when the attitude of his congressional lieutenants, as he winds up his term has shown a distinct stiffening.

The story is somewhat different in Pennsylvania. In the first place Governor Shafer has no real rose garden in which to grow, so that's out.

Secondly — and herein lies the key — he does not have Pennsylvania's legislative branch ruled — overwhelmingly — by legislators of the same political faith as he, as does Mr. Johnson in Washington.

It is true Mr. Shafer enjoys "legislative control" in both House and Senate — on paper — but the control is so marginal that one absentee in either House or Senate eliminates that control factor. Mr. Johnson doesn't have to fiddle with such trivia — he enjoys full-blown control.

Thus Governor Shafer is faced with a decidedly different set of horses; legislative horses, that is.

This makes all the difference in the world — but it is not peculiar by any means to the current Administration.

His predecessor, Democratic Governor Scranton, was forced to waddle through a bit more agonizing situation that found the last half of his four-year tenure dogged by anti-administration Democrats in control of one of the two legislative chambers — the House of Representatives.

And — the chief executive who preceded him (Democratic) Governor Lawrence, found himself in similar exasperating a Democratic House of Representatives but a Republican Senate the entire four years of his administration.

What Pennsylvania's gubernatorial hat-wearers have gone through during the past decade has been just the opposite (from the legislative-executive branch relationship standpoint) from the condition existing in Washington with the President.

Mixed Marriage Rules Rapped by Archbishop

(c) N. Y. Times News Service UPPSALA, Sweden—Arthur Michael Ramsey, the Archbishop of Canterbury, said Tuesday that Roman Catholic rules on mixed marriages are "wrong and must be altered" and expressed confidence that a substantial number of Catholics agree with him.

"Many Roman Catholics—laity, clergy and bishops—are dissatisfied and are looking for a new solution," he stated. Ramsey spoke at the news conference during the current fourth assembly of the World Council of Churches, of which he is one of the six presidents. Noting that mixed marriage remains one of the most difficult topics now under discussion by representatives of the Anglican and Roman Communions, he stated that "on two matters I feel it necessary to be uncompromising—absolutely uncompromising."

The first, he said, was the "pressure put by the Roman Catholic Church on the couple as a matter of duty that the offspring would be brought up as a Roman Catholic."

The second was "the official Roman Catholic non-recognition of marriages performed outside the Roman Catholic Church."

Last spring the two communions established an international commission for Anglican-Roman Catholic dialogue, which has been discussing a wide range of issues, including interfaith marriages. It arose out of the 1966 visit of Ramsey to Pope Paul VI in Rome.

The mixed marriage issue became particularly sensitive when on the eve of the archbishop's visit, the Pontiff released a set of new rules on marriages. The only substantial change was the lifting of the excommunication of Catholics married outside the church.

Ramsey was also critical Tuesday of Pope Paul's June 30 "credo," a conservative summary of Catholic beliefs based on the ancient Nicene Creed and released in recognition of the conclusion of the Year of Faith.

The document has been widely criticized by Protestant and Orthodox leaders here for the short shrift it allegedly gave to ecumenical themes and statements that some interpreted as an invitation to return to Rome. The leader of the world's Anglicans stated that the Roman Catholic church "is holding balance in Christianity between conservative and more progressive elements."

"Just because of that," he stated, "you sometimes get progressive and sometimes conservative statements. It is probably the only church that does this, and this was one of the conservative ones."

Ramsey said that he "regretted" two aspects of the papal statement.

"After all the emphasis by the Vatican Council on collegiality, I regretted that there was no reference to collegiality in the reference to infallibility."

"Also, since the Vatican Council began to distinguish between the more fundamental dogmas and the less fundamental ones, I was surprised that particular Roman Catholic dogmas, like the immaculate conception and papal infallibility, were inserted along with the tenets of the Nicene Creed." Collegiality is the principle of shared government in the church.

Cloud of Electrons Headed Toward Earth

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — A cloud of electrons, spawned by the biggest, brightest solar flare since 1966, was believed headed toward earth Tuesday evening, promising more disruptions of short-wave radio communications and perhaps an unscheduled view of the Northern Lights.

Chief Forecaster Dale Bucknam of the U. S. Space Disturbance Forecast Center said there is a "high probability" of renewed magnetic storms about the earth. They "could begin as early as late evening or by early Wednesday," he said.

He said analysis of data collected here and by "flare patrol" stations around the world indicate a 60 per cent chance of other large-magnitude flares within 24 hours.

Monday's flare, like all such phenomena caused by a buildup of the magnetic field in a specific region on the sun, was not visible to the naked eye. But its effect was felt almost immediately.

X-rays, emitted from the flare at the speed of light, altered the earth's magnetic field and created "noise storms" that fouled up high frequency radio transmissions— from 184 megacycles to 10 megacycles—for several hours Monday.

The magnetic activity did not affect other frequencies, and the noise storms subsided Monday night.

It was a slower-moving "plasma cloud" that scientists said almost certainly headed toward the earth Tuesday evening. The cloud, made up mostly of electrons, also would disrupt short-wave transmissions.

In addition, Bucknam said, it would produce a "visible aurora" on the northern horizon. The glow should be reddish or greenish, he said, and if it became highly active you could expect to see some smaller scale features— ribbons, arcs or rays.

He said that modern instruments and techniques enable scientists to predict such phenomena, but "we still don't always know the why. This is a new science."

The flare recorded at 1:03 p.m. EDT Monday lasted about an hour and was the largest since a similar sighting was made in May 1966. It was rated Class 3 on a size-upright scale that registers up to Class 4.

Emissions from flares are similar in some ways to those from hydrogen explosions, Bucknam said. However, the earth faces no radiation danger because it is protected by its magnetic shield, he explained.

Recruitment Of Negroes To Continue

HARRISBURG (AP) — The State Justice Department said Tuesday that it would proceed with a recruitment drive confined to Negroes despite objections from the State Human Relations Commission.

Attorney General William C. Sennett said his department is seeking 10 Negroes to serve as field investigators with the Bureau of Investigations and Civil Rights.

The announcement drew objection from the State Human Relations Commission, which said it is unlawful to specify the race or color of persons being sought for employment by any public or private source.

Milo A. Manly, deputy director of the Human Relations Commission, said that "the way I understand it, it seemed to me that it was contrary to the law."

Manly, a Negro, pointed to section 5 of the State Human Relations Act which refers to printed or published notices of employment opportunities.

Sennett said that he had notified Manly of his opinion.

Sennett, in reply, said: "In our judgment, such a recruitment policy is the best method of obtaining Negroes, and this we are trying to do."

The attorney general said the move was in line with the governor's recently announced intention to place qualified Negroes in state openings.

The field investigator positions are salaried at from $5,000 to $7,000 a year. Those chosen for the jobs would be responsible for investigating complaints filed with the branch offices of the Bureau of Investigations, a division of the Justice Department.

Sennett said the 10 new openings were announced because of "the increase in civil rights investigations" resulting from complaints.

'Hippie Camp' To Get Building

MEADVILLE — George Hurd, one of the leaders of the county's newest religious groups, the Anthropodeic Church, near Harmonsburg, yesterday secured a building permit at the Crawford County assessment office to construct a parsonage on Rt. 18, about one mile south of Harmonsburg.

The settlement is commonly called the "hippie camp."

The permit indicates that used lumber will be used to build a one-story frame structure, providing 1,200 square feet of floor space at a cost of $300.

The permit also indicates that the parsonage will be constructed on a 25-acre piece of property of Irvine and Helen Close.

Miss New York Finals On TV This Friday Night

OLEAN—The Miss New York finals scheduled for Friday night will be televised in color over a state-wide network arranged through WBEN-TV, Channel 4, Buffalo.

Such major cities as Rochester, Syracuse, and New York City will permit Empire State viewers to witness the initial telecast of the state pageant from Olean High School.

Estimated viewing audience figures are not available but in Atlantic City they are claiming that they expect a record-breaking 102 million persons to see next September's Miss America finals, in which the girl chosen Friday as Miss New York will compete.

There are twenty-two contestants for the New York title, and the girls range in age from 17 to 23.

How are selections made? The girls must perform in a talent competition and then in a swimsuit and an evening gown category. These two events will be held on Wednesday and Thursday nights, with the 10 semi-finalists to go on television Friday.

Prior to viewing contestants in competition, the judges will have had an opportunity to interview each of them individually, after having been given a fact sheet on each girl.

Girls will be watched for personality, voice, diction and general deportment at close range—items on which Miss New York will be judged by persons whom she meets during her year's reign.

Kari Marie Pederson, current Miss New York, advised the girls to "be yourself, do your best, and meet other girls." She also reminded the girls that whoever wins will be faced with a chaperone throughout the year but called the accompanist "a fairy godmother." She praised her own chaperone, Mrs. Phyllis Christie, telling this year's hopefuls that "whoever gets her will be a very lucky girl."

TAKES COURSE FROM GASMEN

Miss Pennsylvania Takes Look At Gas Operating Facilities

Miss Pennsylvania of 1968, Susan Robinson, took a good look at natural gas operating facilities and end uses for the modern fuel in the Pittsburgh area recently. It was her first official visit to Pittsburgh since her triumph in Hershey in June. The 21-year old, former Tennessee native represented Allegheny County in the Miss Pennsylvania competition. She was the guest in Pittsburgh of the Pennsylvania Gas Association (PGA) and Columbia Gas of Pennsylvania, for Columbia's president, J. G. McKee, is also president of PGA this year. McKee personally conducted the lovely blue-eyed blonde on an orientation tour beginning at Columbia's space-age, gas dispatching center in Bethel Park, a Pittsburgh suburb. At the same location, she visited the new, consolidated meter shop, which repairs and services 50,000 gas meters a year. In Mt. Lebanon, another suburb, she looked over a modern, all-gas apartment in the new Lebanon House apartment building. Miss Pennsylvania was escorted by H. R. Weitzel, senior vice president of Columbia Gas to four other area locations: a pipeline construction site near Hendersonville; a gas compressor station and underground gas storage field near Claysville; and two points of gas end-use, the Red Bull Inn, a new restaurant north of Washington; and the Lindenwood Golf Course, near Donaldson's Crossroads, where gas energizes the water sprinkling system. Members of Miss Pennsylvania's party included: Beverly Francis, executive secretary of the Pennsylvania Scholarship Pageant, and Robertson

Teenage Couple Missing

ERIE — State Police at Lawrence Park are investigating the disappearance of two teenagers who were last seen around 7 a. m. Monday. Missing are Susan Cochran, fourteen, of RD 4, Robinson Rd., Summit Township, and Henry Harrison, fifteen, of Waterford. The Cochran girl is described as being about five feet tall, weighing about 110 lbs., and having long, medium light brown hair. She was wearing orange slacks and a yellow blouse.

Henry Harrison is about five feet, five inches tall and weighs 125 lbs. He has medium dark complexion, dark hair and wears black-rimmed glasses. He was last seen wearing a red shirt and green corduroy trousers. State police indicated that the teenagers may have run away from home together and said they doubted any connection between the couple's disappearance and the reported kidnapping of a Corry girl Monday.

Chautauqua Fair Books Hell Drivers

One of the nation's top auto "daredevil" acts, Jack Kochman's Hell Drivers, will be a featured attraction Saturday, July 27, at the Chautauqua County Fair in Dunkirk. They will present two performances, at 3 p.m. and again in the evening following the giant county firemen's parade that is scheduled to begin at 7 o'clock.

The 28-stunt, hour and 45 minute program will include such classic, high-speed thrill maneuvers as the bone-crushing T-bone crash, the two-wheel drive, and the famed reverse spin.

High spot of the program will be a ramp-to-ramp "flight" of a standard model 1968 pickup truck that will hurdle over 70 feet through the air.

The Kochman coterie of 22 persons includes five of the nation's top stunt drivers, plus mechanics, clown and ramp assistants.

Featured in the exciting program are nine 1968 automobiles, old cars used in crash and rollover maneuvers, three trucks, and a giant flatbed trailer. Equipment used in the performances is valued at over $100,000.

Kochman's stunt driving program, seen by over one million persons at close to 200 shows annually, was originated in 1942 when Jack Kochman took over management of the driving display from the late "Lucky" Teeter.

A native of Copenhagen, Denmark, Tony Petersen, specializes in crashes and spins and is featured in the thrilling leap of an old automobile into the top of a second parked car. This is called the dive bomber crash. Many of Petersen's escapes from the spectacular wrecks appear miraculous.

Bob Conto, an experienced radio and television announcer, is probably the most important man to the fans. His rapid-fire delivery and extensive knowledge of stunt driving maneuvers keeps the audience abreast of the fast-moving program. Conto, in addition to his duties as announcer, is general manager of the show.

Producer Kochman is the coordinator of the exhibition-keeping the pace rapid at a thrill-a-minute despite the complicated preparations which are needed for the 28 individual maneuvers. While one act is preparing to go on, another is getting equipment ready and a third is actually doing the performance.

Kochman also consults with automobile factory engineers and designers.

National League Wins Its Sixth Straight All-Star Game

HOUSTON (AP) — The flying legs of San Francisco's Willie Mays built the only run of the game and some sensational National League pitching made it stand up for a 1-0 victory over the Americans in the 39th All-Star Game Tuesday night.

It was the sixth straight victory for the Nationals, who now lead the series 21-17 and it may well have been the most frustrating loss for the Americans.

After California's Jim Fregosi led off the first inning with a double, 20 straight American League hitters went down in order against Don Drysdale of Los Angeles, San Francisco's Juan Marichal, St. Louis' Steve Carlton and Tom Seaver of the New York Mets.

The Americans managed only two more hits—both of them two out doubles against Seaver. And both times the rallies ended on strikeouts.

Atlanta's Ron Reed and Jerry Koosman of New York completed the three-hitter, splitting the ninth inning between them.

The six National League hurlers struck out 11 batters—Five of them by Seaver in the two innings he worked.

All the time, the AL trailed by that single run scored by Mays in the first inning. And Willie named the game's Most Valuable Player, wasn't even supposed to be in the starting lineup.

Willie got to start when Cincinnati's Pete Rose suffered a broken thumb.

Willie, playing in his 19th mid-summer classic, opened with a single against Cleveland's Luis Tiant, the AL starter. Before Tiant over made a pitch to Curt Flood, he tossed over to first baseman Harmon Killebrew. Mays stepped back easily.

Again Tiant watched him lead away and again the Indians' right-hander flipped to Killebrew. This time, though, the ball got away from the Minnesota first baseman and Mays took off for second.

Now Tiant worked to Flood, St. Louis' fleet center fielder, who was moved to left when Mays was added to the NL lineup.

The Cleveland pitcher fell behind and finally walked Flood with the fourth ball flying over Detroit catcher Bill Freehan's head. Mays streaked for third.

Now with runners at first and third and none out, the AL played its infield back for San Francisco slugger Willie McCovey.

McCovey obliged, bouncing sharply to Minnesota's Rod Carew at second base. Carew hesitated ever so slightly, perhaps thinking of trying to throw Mays out at the plate, then went for the double play.

It was the logical play, considering the inning, but a fatal one for the Americans. Mays scored and the AL never got the run back.

Drysdale, making a record-tying fifth All-Star start, had only one shaky moment when Fregosi lined a shot off the base of the left field wall for a leadoff double.

The Angel shortstop advanced to third on Carew's bounce to McCovey but was stranded there when Carl Yastrzemski popped up and Frank Howard of Washington lined out.

Drysdale set down six more hitters in order and then turned the job over to Marichal, who hurled two more perfect innings, striking out three.

Next came Carlton, who got the side in order in the sixth. Seaver retired the first two batters in the seventh before Tony Oliva of Minnesota broke the spell with another line double. But Seaver struck out Cleveland's Joe Azcue, ending the threat.

Again there was a two-out double in the eighth, this time to right field by Detroit's Don Wert. But again Seaver struck out Rick Monday of Oakland, stranding the runner.

In the ninth, Reed retired the first two batters, fanning Baltimore's Dave Johnson for the NL's 10th strikeout. Then Koosman came on to strike out Boston's Most Valuable Player, slugger Yastrzemski, for the game's final out.

Meanwhile the American League pitchers were doing a pretty fair job themselves. Tiant, Blue Moon Odom of Oakland, Detroit's Denny McLain, Sam McDowell of Cleveland, Chicago's Tommy John and New York's Mel Stottlemyre combined for nine strikeouts and got McCovey three times.

The crowd of 48,321 fans had a scare in the third inning when Killebrew at first base, stretching for a throw from Fregosi collapsed and had to be carried off the field on a stretcher.

The injury was diagnosed as a severe hamstring pull in his left leg. The leg was packed in ice and Killebrew was expected to be out of action for at least a week.

Tiant took the responsibility for the wild pitch which allowed Mays to reach third base in the first inning.

"Freeman called for a low curve and I threw a high fast ball," he said.

From down around the bottom of the league the Sheffield Tavern made a noise that sounded like they wanted to move up the ladder in taking their fifth straight win, a 16-5 drubbing of R. W. Norris. These were the only games played that were scheduled for the evening.

NFL Owners Stand Firm; Put Pressure on Players

CHICAGO (AP) — National Football League owners reaffirmed their position Tuesday of keeping training camps closed unless the Players Association permits all veterans to report.

At the same time, the owners said the camps would be opened to rookies, stating, "Since the owners obligated themselves to afford rookies an opportunity to try to make the team, the camps will be opened to any rookies who wish to have such a tryout."

"On the assumption that clubs have an adequate number of players available, properly conditioned and prepared to play, each club intends to fulfill its preseason game commitments."

Art Modell, owner of the Cleveland Browns and president of the NFL, further stated that "we will remain open for further negotiations if the players wish to confer with us."

The players are demanding an immediate boost in their pension fund. The owners are asking two more years to boost the fund to what the players are presently asking.

Vince Lombardi of Green Bay said he stands on his original statement that the Packers will play in the College All-Star

Game in Chicago Aug. 2 "If our team is properly conditioned and if we have a sufficient number of rookies in camp to field a squad."

The owners left for their respective homes with Modell saying, "We will be available to meet with the Players Association at any time to arrive at any mutual agreement."

Modell also said consideration of cancelling the 1968 season entirely was not discussed.

Presumably, the NFL at this point plans to go along with Vikings Sidestep Training Ban

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) — The National Football League club owners have told the teams not to open training camps, but the Minnesota Vikings are working around it.

The Vikings started their annual quarterback candidate school Tuesday with Coach Bud Grant and his staff welcoming five quarterbacks, including three veterans.

Holdovers Joe Kapp and Bob Berry join Gary Cazzoza, obtained in a winter trade with New Orleans, and rookies Bob Lee and Jim Haynie in answering Grant's classroom bell.

rookies and whatever veterans show up.

"The union was repeatedly told that the owners will not be in a position to conclude pension negotiations until the merger with the American Football League is completed in 1970.

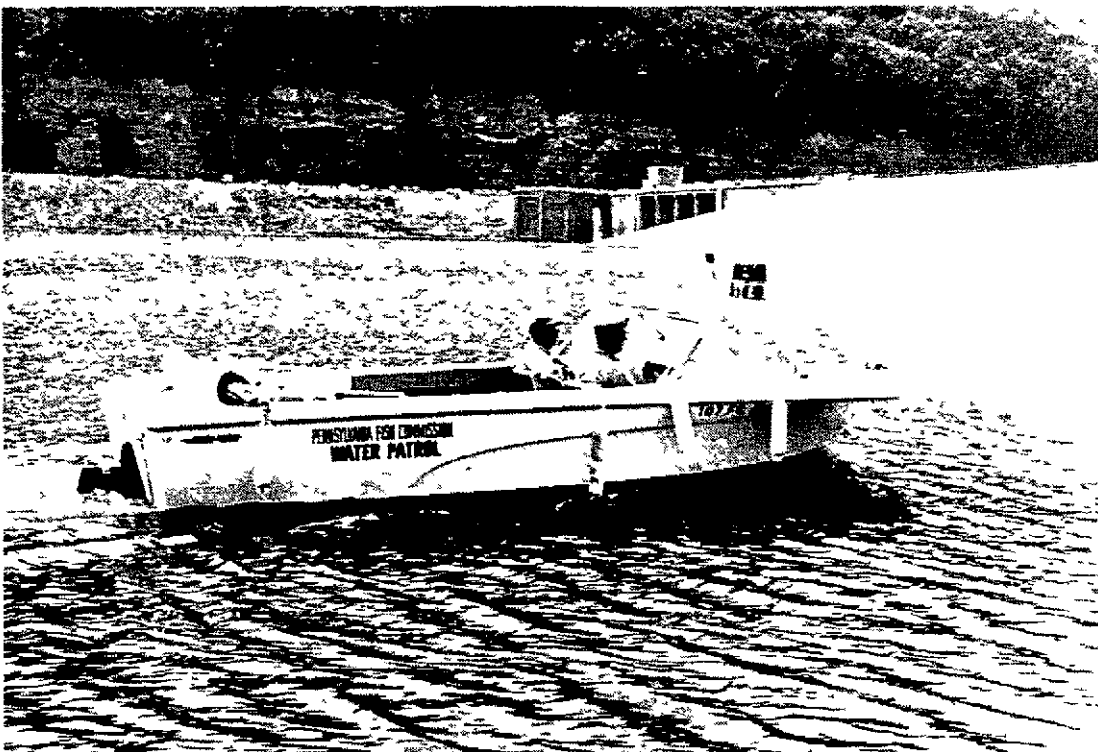

"The owners also unanimously affirmed they will not open their training camps unless the union's leaders permit all veterans to report.

"There is no way for individual clubs to determine the number of players who will be available at any given time. On the assumption that clubs have an adequate number of players available, properly conditioned and prepared to play, each club intends to fulfill its preseason game commitments."

AFL Players Won't Strike

SAN DIEGO (AP) — American Football League players will not support any strike which might result from the current owner-player deadlock in the National Football League, says Jack Kemp, president of the AFL Players Association.

Kemp, quarterback of the Buffalo Bills, said Monday that difficult economic situations is the primary reason.

NEW PATROL BOAT AT RESERVOIR

City Ice Chopped By Night Clubbers

By J. D. Pirillo

Sooner or later it had to come and last night it did, City Ice and Beverage lost their first game of the year in fifteen starts to the Towne and Country, 11-4.

The second place Warren Sub Shop couldn't wait for their game to start, after the news, and thus proceeded to make sure they would move up a full game in the standings by pounding Rex Chain-Belt, 25-5 to cut the Beverage's lead to two games.

From down around the bottom of the league the Sheffield Tavern made a noise that sounded like they wanted to move up the ladder in taking their fifth straight win, a 16-5 drubbing of R. W. Norris. These were the only games played that were scheduled for the evening.

It's Hard To Hit .300

NEW YORK (AP) — With only Boston's Ken Harrelson and Carl Yastrzemski over the .300 batting mark at the All-Star break, the American League is threatening to break an ignominious record that has stood for 63 years.

Harrelson paces the circuit with .307 followed by Yastrzemski with .302, Rick Monday of Oakland is third at .296, then it's all the way down to .286 for the No. 4 batter, Rod Carew of Minnesota.

The major league record for fewest .300 batsmen is two established by the AL in 1905. It was tied in 1966 when Frank Robinson of Baltimore captured the title with a .316 average and Minnesota's Tony Oliva was next with .307. Detroit's Al Kaline placed third with .288.

The National League has 10 players at .300 or higher, topped by Pittsburgh's Matty Alou with .344.

Cincinnati's Pete Rose, the early season pacesetter, remains runnerup at .329.

Rich Occhuzzo sent the fans home buzzing after he almost single-handedly destroyed the City Ice with his bat. He went four-for-four on the night and collected five RBI's off of Chuck Pettit—the losing twirler. It was his two-run homer in the first that put the Beverage men behind to stay.

Doug Baldensberger, after being shellacked in the All-Star game on Sunday, looked like he suffered no ill effects as he spread the City Ice and Beverage's hits out accordingly. A five run fifth inning was too much for the losers to swallow. Occhuzzo was the instigator of this on a three-run single with the bases jammed.

A ten run third inning was more than enough for Jim Ostergard to come up with the Sub Shop's eleventh win. The power-packed lineup managed to push across a run in every inning to win walking away.

Chuck McDermont was the answer to a manager's dream in this game. He was 6-6 at the plate, all singles and he scored on all six hits. Ostergard isn't much of a slouch at the plate either, he pounded out five hits, one of which was his fifth homer of the year. Tony Ross also homered twice and doubled in a 4-5 performance.

F. Bryan was the victim of the brutal slaying. He did receive a little help from V. Kittner, B. Wallis and Bob Jackson in the hitting department, as they tapped a double apiece.

The Tavern Express, by reports, is headed for the top in a gallant effort. The Sheffield boys came up with an eight run fifth inning and defended the six hit pitching of Lee Goldthwaite to preserve the win.

It wasn't as easy as it sounded for the victors. They were trailing 4-0 at the end of an inning before Goldthwaite decided to grab the bull by the horns. His solo homer in the second got the ball rolling. Amazingly enough, the next 15 runs they came up with were on just four base hits. Ed Groves' homer and Terry Bross' triple accounted for two of the four remaining hits.

Tonight in the City League the Sons of Italy plays host to the Warren Beverage at 6:30. While Nichols Service looks for the wrap-up of the first half crown against the Betts Black Knights.

Anyway, It's The Mets

Our apologies to Gus Cerra and the Mineral Well Mets. It was the Mineral Well Mets and not Soda Mineral that won its first game of the 1968 season on Monday evening in the City League.

HOT STOVE LEAGUE

TV Loss of $20,000,000 If Footballers Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — If the National Football League is forced to call off its 1968 schedule as a result of the threatened player strike, as some owners hint is possible, more than $20 million in television receipts will go down the drain.

"We're just sitting tight and waiting to see what happens," William MacPhail, vice-president in charge of sports for the Columbia Broadcasting System, said Tuesday.

"If they don't play any games, we can't carry through with our TV program and so they don't get paid—it's as simple as that. We would just be compelled to fill the vacant spots with other shows—glad ing, golf or maybe movies."

CBS has the contract for all NFL games, alternating with the National Broadcasting company as the outlet for the Super Bowl.

The two-year contract, signed before the 1966 season and with options for renewal, called for payment of $18.8 million a year by CBS for regular season games.

This contract was renewed and adjusted with the admission of a 16th team—the New Orleans Saints—and was pushed into the $20 million area.

In addition, the contract calls for $2 million to be paid by CBS for the NFL championship play-off and $2.5 million for the Super Bowl.

Since CBS had the last Super Bowl game, NBC would be scheduled to get it in January of 1969, also paying $2.5 million.

British Bookies Back Nicklaus

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland (AP) — Jack Nicklaus wound up practice Tuesday with a two-under-par 70 for the British Open championship and said: "I don't care who they make the favorite. Just about anybody can win the championship."

A total of 150 golfers, including 11 Americans, start shooting Wednesday for the hallowed British Open crown first played for in 1860.

British bookies, after looking at the way Nicklaus was handling this tough course on the edge of the North Sea, made him a 4-1 favorite to repeat his triumph in the British Open at Muirfield, Scotland, in 1966.

Billy Casper of San Diego, Calif., was second favorite at 5-1. Gary Player of South Africa, was a 9-1 shot.

Then came the veteran Arnold Palmer, Latrobe, Pa., at 10-1. Arnie, winner of this crown in 1961 and 1962, now appears to be slipping—but he has a habit of rallying in major tournaments.

Defending champion Roberto de Vicenzo of Argentina and Bruce Devlin were 12-1 in the betting with Bert Yancey of Tallahassee, Fla., and Gay Brewer of Dallas at 14-1. Doug Sanders, Ojai, Calif., was 16-1.

Other Americans involved in the field are Hubby Hahjan, Chicago; Jerry Pittman, New York; amateur Bob Sweeney,

Bob Young picked up the tenth win for the Newsmen to enable them to push the A & B nine into the second place slot. Young helped his own cause with a homer and Tim Nelson saw to it that the game stayed out of reach with a two-run triple.

UCT Loses

Jay Bathurst outlasted George Abel on the hill as the Kiwanis Club slipped by UCT, 9-3. Jim Monaghan and Abel did their best to change the reading with their homers. Mark Daniels and Roger Madigan had a little more to say about it, in connecting a pair of doubles each.

Dennis Benedict survived the hitting spree to knock up the win over his counterpart, Mike Nobles. Jerry Cresslye delivered the winners a pair of triples while teammates, Brian Larson, Gordon Cressley and Clarence Sullivan tossed one apiece into the ring. Ed Benedict homered for UNG and Ron Wiant came through with a three-bagger.

Lakers and 76ers Make it Official; Wilt is Traded

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Wilt Chamberlain, professional basketball's incomparable superstar, was traded — officially — Tuesday by the Philadelphia 76ers to the Los Angeles Lakers.

In return, the 76ers received three players — Archie Clark, Darrell Imhoff and Jerry Chambers. No cash was involved.

The announcement, at an early afternoon news conference in Philadelphia, ended two months' speculation the 7-foot-1 dunkshot artist was headed for the West Coast.

Several hours before the news conference, a 76ers' spokesman confirmed the trade had been made. It also was confirmed by the Lakers on the West Coast.

The Associated Press reported Friday night the deal had been consummated.

He reportedly made in excess of $250,000 last year, making him the highest salaried athlete in the United States. And he is believed to have asked the 76ers for a three-year, $1 million contract.

Most basketball fans feel the acquisition of the 32-year-old Chamberlain should make the Lakers a shoo-in for the National Basketball Association title next season. He will team with two other basketball greats — Elgin Baylor and Jerry West. The 76ers, in return, received a solid guard in Clark, 26, a dependable, if not flashy, defensive center in Imhoff, 29, and Chambers, 24, a potentially good forward.

Chamberlain was not present when Jack Ramsay, the 76ers' general manager, disclosed the deal. Ramsay made no mention

Powder Puff Derby Deadline Extended

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) — The deadline in the annual Powder Puff Derby, a 2,500-mile cross country race of women pilots, has been extended until noon Wednesday because of unexpected delays due to fog and rain.

A late Thursday afternoon arrival, Billie B. Stringer of Sulphur, La., brought to six the number of planes that have successfully completed the trip.

The race was originally scheduled to end at 8:34 p.m., Savannah time, Tuesday, but a heavy fog at Greenville, Miss., Birmingham, Ala., and Savannah delayed the women from taking off.

The deadline extension was announced when it became obvious 40 per cent of the planes would not be in Savannah by the original deadline, a spokesman said.

The spokesman said winners in the $3,000 race will not be announced until late Wednesday afternoon.

At least 72 pilots are still in the running for a share of the prize money.

Those who have completed the trip include Shirley Fadel Junker and Ila Mae Carosell, both of Palm Springs, Calif.; Beryl Young and Olga Tarling, Queensland, Australia; Cleo of his pending appointment as 76ers' coach, succeeding Alex Hannum who resigned last April after two years at the helm.

The Associated Press learned Ramsay will be named the new Philadelphia coach within the next week or 10 days.

Sherbow, Baltimore, Md., and Jean Ralston, Washington, D.C.; Joan Stype, Wooster, Ohio, and Ruby Mensching, Akron, Ohio, and Virginia Rainwater, Reseda, Calif., and Shirlee Kay, Encio, Calif.

Philly Eagles May Go Public

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jerry Wolman, owner of the Philadelphia Eagles pro football team, has proposed a sale of stock to the public to help him pay some of his debts.

Under the plan filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission, both the Philadelphia Spectrum and the Connie Mack Stadium would be turned over to the new firm, in which the public would own more than half the stock.

The SEC said Tuesday that Wolman's newly formed company, Trans-Sports, Inc., filed a registration statement for 350,000 shares of common stock to be sold to the public and $8 million in 1978 debentures.

The new firm is part of an agreement worked out in Federal Court for Wolman to pay off $24.8 million in debts and to settle a bankruptcy case pending against him.

Under the plan, Trans-Sports, with Wolman as president and board chairman, would offer 350,000 common shares and $4,473,000 in debentures for public sale.

The stock was valued at $30 a share to compute the SEC's registration fee.

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP) — Billy Casper retained the top spot Monday in the list of the Professional Golfers Association top 10 money winners of the year and Tom Weiskopf, who backed into a victory at the Buick Open, was second.

Casper's winnings totaled $130,185 to give him a lead of $13,049 over Weiskopf. Weiskopf's prize of $25,000 for first place in the Buick Open gave him a total of $117,136.

Weiskopf won the open on the final hole when PGA rookie Mike Hill missed a putt.

Lee Trevino, who was in a tie for fifth in the Buick Open, was third on the list.

Stafford Wins Pa. Open Golf Winning a Purse of $750

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Roland Stafford, playing the best golf of his life, fired a second straight two-under-par 69 Tuesday and brought the Pennsylvania Open Golf Championship to the west for the first time since 1951.

The victory was worth $750 to Stafford, who lost his title in a three-way sudden death playoff three years ago. The last Western Pennsylvania to win was Johnny Bulla also of Verona.

Stafford, of Verona, put together rounds of 35-34 over the par 36-35—71 Green Oaks Country Club to win by four strokes with a 36 hole total of 138.

He said he rarely plays a tournament as well as he practices, but conceded, "I feel like I'm playing as well as I ever have."

Sam Penecale, of Philadelphia, the first round co-leader, skidded to a 73 for a 142 and a three-way tie for second with amateur Trip O'Donnell of Pottstown and Skeel Riegel of Doylestown.

O'Donnell was the last of the trio to fall from contention, driving out of bounds at the ninth hole, and taking a double bogey six. That enabled Stafford, who took the lead for good with a birdie at No. 8, to make the turn with a three-stroke edge.

The 36-year-old Stafford, a native of Glens Falls, N.Y., had three birdies and only a lone bogey on 18 in his round, a contrast to Monday when he had six birds and four bogeys.

He said he wasn't sure the tournament was his until he sank a 60 foot putt to birdie No. 17. He admitted playing it safe most of the back nine.

"I didn't know I had it won then," he said, "... but I knew no one else was going any great shakes."

Stafford's other birdies came on an eight-foot putt at the eighth hole and a driver, four wood, and two putts on the short par five 13th.

He went over par on the final hole when he hit his approach shot over the green—the lone error in his strategy, he said.

"The only strategy I had was that I didn't want to over club and hop over the green," Stafford said, "because that way you make bogeys like on the 18th."

O'Donnell, the low amateur, said he played poorly, but good putting—he used only 24 putts—saved him.

Five players, including amateurs Gene Farrell of Penn

Hills, and Paul Young of New Castle, tied for fifth with 144. The others were Gene Farrell Jr. of Verona and Willie Maples and Henry McQuiston, both of Philadelphia.

Young and McQuiston also had 69s but the day's low round—lowest in the tournament—was shot by 19-year-old amateur Jim Masserio of Duquesne, a Memphis State sophomore, and former National Junior Champion. He tacked a four-under-par 67 to an opening 78 for a 145 and tied for tenth.

Toomey Wins 4th Decathlon Title

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — In the years to come, when Bill Toomey wants to teach his students a little history, he'll have to do no more than mention his own name.

The 29-year-old former University of Colorado track and field man, now a high school history teacher in this coastal city, put his name into the record books of the Amateur Athletic Union Sunday.

He ran, leaped and threw his way to 8,037 points, easily outdistancing the rest of the field to become the first man ever to win the national AAU decathlon four times.

A PLEASANT SURPRISE

HOUSTON — When the big league ballplayers balloted for starting places for the All Star Game, Henry Aaron of the Braves was batting in the neighborhood of .236, a pretty shoddy neighborhood. It was especially shoddy for Aaron, a quietly efficient superstar with a lifetime average of .316. His own choices for the three outfield posts were Pete Rose of the Reds, Curt Flood of the Cardinals and Willie Mays of the Giants. He assumed that his peers would agree with him.

Vast was his astonishment therefore when he learned the results of the election. Although Henry had run behind Rose and Flood in the voting, he had edged out Mays for the third outfield post.

"I never was so surprised in my life," he said today. "I said to the guy who told me, 'You gotta be kidding.' I never thought I had a chance. Willie was having a pretty good year and even though my run production and home run totals were high, my batting average was much too low."

By a quirk of fate Mays also contrived to get into the lineup. Rose broke a thumb on Saturday and Willie the Wonder replaced him as a starter. But Aaron the man who thought he made it on the equivalent of a raincheck, was the clean-up hitter for the Nationals in the game in the Astrodome Tuesday night, an emphatic demonstration of the esteem in which he is held.

"Funny thing about it," said Henry with a puzzled shake of his head, "is that I've been lousy in All Star games. I can't explain it. In 17 games I've batted .166, but my World Series average is .364. So you can't blame it on folding under pressure. Maybe I try too hard and press too much in All Star play. I'm at my best when I'm relaxed."

"In the World Series a guy gets a feeling that there's always tomorrow. But there are no tomorrows in All Star games. There's only today. I remember the one in St. Louis. I felt that I'd knock the ball out of the park every time I stepped up to bat and I never got better pitches. All I did was pop up."

Knocking the ball out of the park is something that Henry does exceedingly well. He is impatiently waiting for the resumption of regular league play because a historic moment for him is just around the corner. The Aaron lifetime total in home runs is now poised at 499.

The next one will bring him into one of baseball's more exclusive fraternities, carrying him over the magic line that so few have traversed. Up ahead of him in inverse order will be Eddie Mathews, Mel Ott, Ted Williams, Mickey Mantle, Jimmy Foxx, Willie Mays and the incomparable Babe Ruth. Only the Babe, with 714 homers, is totally beyond reach. Perhaps Mays also will prove to be unreachable before he calls it a day. But the others are within range.

"I think I can eventually go over 600 home runs," said Henry with no more emotional display than a man saying he expected to have breakfast tomorrow morning. "If I can stay healthy and keep swinging in the Atlanta ball park, I can do it."

"When the Braves were in Milwaukee, I sprayed my hits to all fields and wasn't even conscious of home runs. The ball doesn't carry well out there. Besides, I started as a 20-year-old kid who didn't know much. We had two big power hitters in Eddie Mathews and Joe Adcock. My idea was to get on base so they could drive me in. But when I got older and began to learn what it was all about, I started to hit homers."

"I feel sorry for Willie Mays. He's in a bad ball park. I'd go crazy there. The wind at Candlestick costs him I don't know how many homers a year. Atlanta is wonderful. There is no wind the ball really rides."

"In our first season there in 1966 I figured I had to put on a show for our new fans and I concentrated on homers. My batting average dropped below .300 for the first time since my rookie year. But I won my third home run championship with 44. Odd thing, isn't it? My uniform number is 44 and I hit 44 homers all three times. Last year I dropped to 39, also tops in the league, and hit .306."

"I'm gonna have to go to a .360 clip for the last half of the season if I'm gonna reach .300 again. But I've started to hit and might be able to do it. If I get back in the groove I might reach the 40 mark in homers as well. I have 18 up to now."

Henry has been a remarkable ballplayer even since he was flung unexpectedly into the big league pressure cooker in 1954. He got his chance only because Bobby Thomson broke his leg badly in spring training, thereby opening a spot in the lineup for the eager rookie who hadn't even had the background of AAA ball.

Once most valuable player in the league, twice the batting champion, four times the home run king, Henry has been the complete ball player without ever coming close to matching Mays's flair for the dramatic or the glamorous. Not too many, for instance, are aware of the fact that this is Henry's 18th successive all star game. In his unobtrusive fashion he keeps inching toward the hall of fame and 600 homers would be a certain passport to Cooperstown.

...An especially tempting sundae is a double scoop of chocolate ice cream topped with marshmallow cream. Thin ready-to-use marshmallow cream with cold water until it is of sauce consistency, then spoon it over the ice cream. To add variety and flavor, top with a maraschino cherry and circle the scoop of ice cream with Richardson mint patties.

...Refreshing sherbets can be enhanced with fresh or canned fruits. Put a few dips of orange sherbet in a tall glass, alternating with fresh or canned pineapple sections. Garnish each sundae with a fresh orange slice and top with pineapple juice.

...Luscious parfait layered ice cream creations with fillings of fruits, sauces, nuts, syrups and other tasty ingredients always are favorites with children. Try creamy rich vanilla ice cream layered with a triple thick fudge sauce topped with crushed pecans. Use parfait, sherbet, pilsner or small iced-tea glasses. Ice cream flavors as well as the fillings can be varied. These are excellent for making in advance and then storing in the freezer.

...Creamy, thick frappe treats are cool, frothy and full of flavor. For a fruited strawberry frappe, combine one cup of crushed strawberries and one-third cup of sugar. Stir in one quart of milk. Fill four chilled tall glasses three-quarters full with the flavored milk. Add a heaping scoop of vanilla or strawberry ice cream to each glass. Stir until the ice cream is partially melted, then garnish with whole strawberries.

Soviets To Sell Pakistan Arms

NEW DELHI — The Soviet Union was reliably reported here Tuesday to have agreed to sell armaments to Pakistan.

The deal was said to have been finalized during the visit of Pakistan's Army Chief of Staff, Gen. Yahya Khan, to Moscow last week. The general's visit was made at the invitation of the Soviet government.

The Indian government had indications earlier of the major reversal of the Soviet policy in the subcontinent but confirmation was available only last weekend.

The Soviet charge d'affaires here, Nikolai Smirnov, called at the foreign office on Saturday and was reported to have conveyed the news of the arms deal with Pakistan. Moscow had also asked him to assure the Indian government that Pakistan would never be allowed to use the weapons against India.

Indian reaction was sharp. In a hurriedly called cabinet meeting Prime Minister Mrs. Indira Gandhi discussed the matter. There were strong suggestions to call off the visit of President Zakir Husain who was scheduled to begin a 10-day goodwill visit to the Soviet Union. However, the idea was rejected and the Indian president left on schedule Monday.

He was undoubtedly asked to convey dismay at the Soviet decision and possibly seek its reversal. Officials were so dismayed at the Soviet move that they would not confirm the news even Tuesday. But the news leaked out and at least two newspapers have written strong editorials condemning the Soviet deal with Pakistan.

Mrs. Gandhi, who is touring Assam, said at a news conference in Gauhati Tuesday that the reported Soviet arms supply to Pakistan was "fraught with danger."

She said that it might "incite" Pakistan into launching new offensives against India. The two countries were locked up in bitter war in 1965 over the Kashmir issue. India blamed the United States for equipping Pakistan with arms, thus encouraging her to wage a war.

"We had experience in the past when America gave arms to Pakistan," Mrs. Gandhi said. "She used it against us despite U.S. assurances. We have doubts whether the Soviet Union would be able to control Pakistan."

Perhaps what hurt the Indians more was the sudden Soviet equation of India with Pakistan. Indian leaders often cited the exclusive Soviet support for India as a vindication of the government's foreign policy.

Moreover, the consistent refusal of the Soviet leaders to give arms to Pakistan has been hailed by the Indians as a contribution to peace and stability on the subcontinent.

But India's disillusionment with the Soviet Union came when Soviet leaders began wooing Pakistan. Last April when Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin visited Rawalpindi, Pakistan, he was noncommittal on a possible military deal with Pakistan. Even now Indians do not believe that the Soviet Union would want to sell arms to Pakistan in as large quantities as they sell to India.

Mrs. Gandhi tempered her comments by a declaration that there would not be any change in India's policy toward the Soviet Union as a result of the reported arms deal.

"Every country is free to give aid to anybody. It's none of our business to interfere," she said.

Health inspection of meat and poultry becomes mandatory instead of voluntary under new legislation signed into law Tuesday by Gov. Shafer.

The measure replaces a 53-year-old meat hygiene law which provided inspection services on a voluntary basis with the packers and processors.

"This new legislation," said the governor, "places Pennsylvania in the forefront of states that have taken action to safeguard the public's meat supply. It is interesting to note, in this respect, that Pennsylvania was also in the forefront a half-century ago when it recognized the need for meat inspection, and was among the first states to enact such legislation."

Shafer said the new law provides a broad base "upon which to build consumer confidence in the wholesomeness of meat and poultry processed in Pennsylvania."

A corollary benefit was cited by State Agriculture Secretary Leland H. Bull. He said the inspection program would be an important factor in maintaining the health of livestock and eradicating diseases which could be transmitted to humans.

"TARTUFFE"

Orgon (Bill Odell) comes upon housemaid Dorine (Marjorie Melnick) in a scene from Moliere's "Tartuffe" which opened Tuesday at the Plowright Playhouse. The play is a comedy dealing with a conniving charlatan who affects religious sentiment for the sake of personal gain.

ICS DIPLOMA AWARDED

Dempsey Peterson (r) foreman in the Equipment Development Plant, presents Walter McKown with his ICS diploma. Walter completed a 75-unit course in machinist toolmaking. This course, which is specifically designed for Sylvania apprentices, is one of the related courses required for all four year apprentices. Walter has completed more than 4500 hours of his 8,000 hour apprenticeship.

'Tartuffe' Now Playing At Plowright

"Tartuffe" by the seventeenth century playwright Moliere opened Tuesday night at Plowright Playhouse in Scandia.

The plot concerns a wily religious hypocrite who enters the home of a French family and tries to usurp the father's position. The father is taken in and attempts to marry his daughter to Tartuffe. Tartuffe has his own inclinations, however, and attempts to seduce his mentor's wife.

The cast includes Richard Baker, Tartuffe; Rusty Schneck, Elmire; William Odell, Orgon; Marjorie Melnick, Dorine; Susan Rosenblum, Marianne; Barry Fischer, Valere; Mary Richards, Madame Pernelle; Joe Donick, Cleante; Doug Coates, Damis; Bob Kates, officer; Bill Blumquist, Loyal; and Anne Buttrick, Filpote.

The play runs through Saturday this week and Tuesday through Saturday next week. Showtime is 8:30 p.m. The theatre is located on Scandia rd. ten miles north of Warren.

Pennsylvania Crops Maturing On Schedule

HARRISBURG (AP) — Pennsylvania crops are maturing on schedule, although some have been slowed by the warm weather and humidity, the State Crop Reporting Service said Tuesday.

The climate had contradictory effects on hay and barley and on wheat, oats and corn. The humidity provided poor drying conditions for the hay and barley and boosted the growth of wheat, oats, and corn.

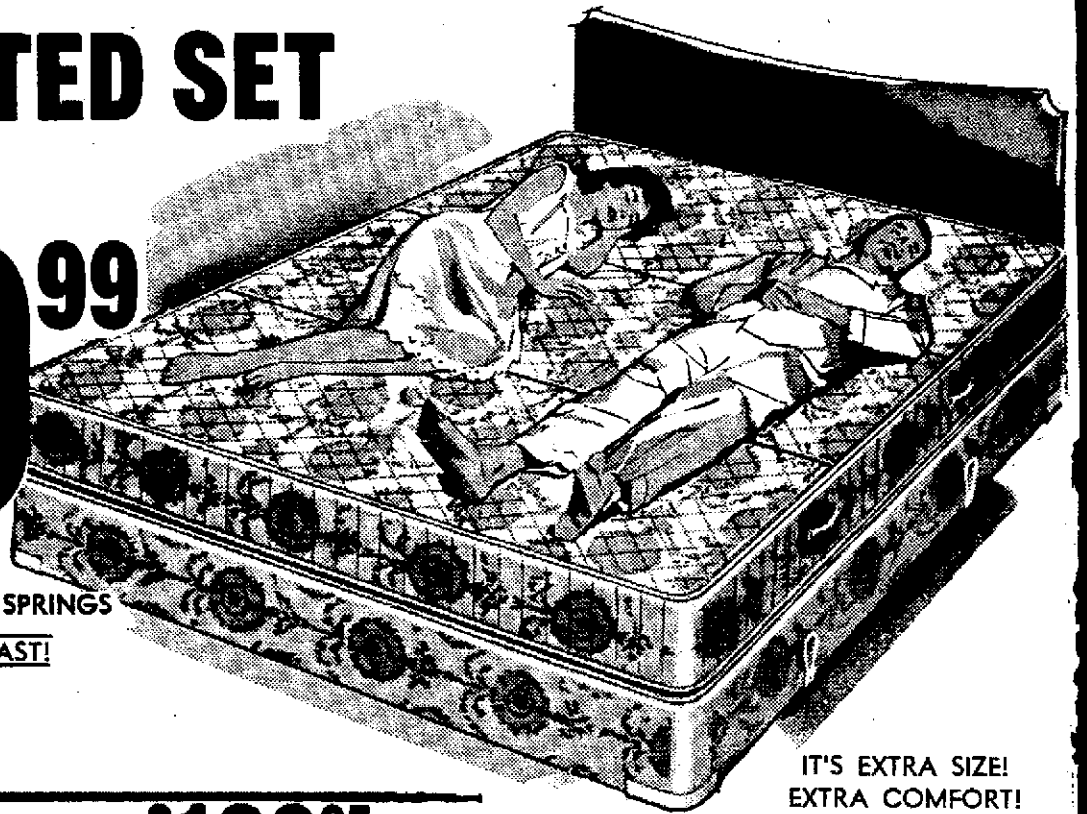

The hot weather has retarded pasture growth and caused mite infestation in the apple orchards. But both crops are expected to yield average harvests.

Peaches have been sizing well and coloring in most areas. The Adams-Franklin area reports sweet cherries almost completely harvested, while the sweet and sour cherry crop in Erie County is about to be harvested.

Interest Rates Leveling Off For Home Buyer

WASHINGTON (AP) — There are increasing signs that interest rates for the home buyer are leveling off at their record spring peak, but the experts don't look for any quick drop. The experts however, look for better conditions for the home buyer by the end of the year.

Both industry and government sources view the future for the home buyer and the home building industry with cautious optimism in the wake of enactment of the 10 per cent income tax surcharge.

Interest rates on home loans have shown an almost steady advance for nearly a year, but the National Association of Home Builders said its survey indicates a leveling off at 7.1 per cent on the average during June.

Government figures for June won't be available for several more weeks.

But the Federal National Mortgage Association, a branch of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, said its weekly purchases of mortgages from private bankers indicates a new optimism in the mortgage market.

In a midyear survey, the National Association of Home Builders said some of the gloom that began to creep into the mortgage market a month ago was dispelled a bit by a leveling in interest rates, good gains in deposits during June by savings and loan associations, heightened buyer demand and very low vacancy rates.

The association said savings and loans, the largest single source of home loan money, increased their savings deposits by about $1.7 billion in June, a figure which includes dividends credited to accounts.

One government source said the trend for interest rates would depend on how hard the income tax increase bites into the economy.

Savings and loan associations may gain as much as $7 billion in savings this year, the home builders survey showed. This is below the record $10.6 billion gain of last year but well above the $3.6 billion advance for 1966 when housing went into a tailspin.

A shortage of mortgage funds that year sent interest rates to their previous record highs and produced one of the worst years since World War II for home building.

The industry still looks for a 10 per cent increase in new housing starts this year to about 1.4 million units.

House Defeats Special Liquor License Bill

HARRISBURG (AP) — The House defeated Tuesday a bill which would have permitted religious and charitable institutions to obtain special licenses to sell alcoholic beverages at block parties or carnivals.

The bill was beaten, 65-119, as opponents attacked the necessity of religious or charitable organizations having to resort to this type of fund-raising activity.

"Churches do not need to sell beer to make money," declared Rep. Percy Foor, R-Bedford. "If this bill passes, there'll be a hot time in the old town tonight," exclaimed Rep. William Shuman, D-Franklin.

Rep. Daniel Beren, R-Montgomery, the bill's chief sponsor said many church or charitable organizations currently sell beer or liquor at festivals, a practice which could be legally challenged.

"This is simply intended to clean up the liquor laws," he argued in vain.

The measure would have authorized the State Liquor Control Board to award special licenses for five days at $20 per license.

Judge Orders Authorities Bath Prisoners

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — A municipal court judge Tuesday ordered city jail authorities to make immediate arrangements to give four Pennsylvania prisoners baths.

The order was made by Judge John J. Leskovyansky after one of the men, Edward J. Kern, 59, of Pittsburgh, complained they had not had a bath for 10 days.

Kern asked the judge to send the four to the Mahoning County Jail so they could have baths.

Leskovyansky said the men were to be given baths Wednesday or "I will take further action."

Kern, together with Paul Forrest, 25, of West Chester; William E. Ziefel Jr., 27, of Pittsburgh and Wallace Mitchell, 26, of Valencia, appeared at a preliminary hearing on charges of shooting with intent to kill and malicious destruction of property.

Leskovyansky continued the hearing until Friday so legal representation could be obtained for the men.

The charges resulted from an exchange of gunfire with Youngstown police when the quartet fled northward June 29 to nearby Girard with a police cruiser in pursuit. The fugitives' bullets nicked one patrolman and damaged the police vehicle.

The four, three of them prison escapees, are being held on bonds totaling $249,500. All except Ziefel walked away from a work detail at the Huntingdon Correctional Institution in Pennsylvania June 21.

PARK VIEW OF WARREN

The view from Warren's Washington Park, long a famed and popular picnic area and landmark, changes but little. While there are many new buildings below, the Allegheny River still winds its way and the forested hillsides stand in majestic majesty. But within the park itself, there is almost utter desolation. (Photo by Mansfield)

MARRED PLAQUE

Washington Park was built on a 60-acre tract presented to the Borough of Warren by public citizens led by Charles Twining Conarro. The park itself was a gift to the borough from the late Mrs. S. E. Walker and was dedicated in April of 1924 with the unveiling of a monument. The bronze plaque however, today bears the marks of pellets fired in target practice, deeply pitting the memorial. Perhaps some of today's citizens are not so public spirited. (Photo by Mansfield)

Beautiful Washington Park Is Not So 'Beautiful' Today

By BETTY RICE

They're grown up now—but they still remember those balmy summer days and evenings when picnic baskets were loaded and the family, grandparents, too, wended their way to beautiful Washington Park which looks out over Warren.

To a secluded spot, a particular favorite, and its clean picnic table to be spread with red and white checkered cloth. There was wood nearby and a fireplace beckoning for flames to turn out any number of delicacies—pan fried fish or fried potatoes, a steak and of course occasions when only hot dogs or hamburgers filled the bill. Visitors to the area frequently enjoyed an early morning breakfast at Washington Park, a true landmark in the county. And as the children grew older, it was nothing to hike to the scenic, rustic facility presented by the late Mrs. S. E. Walker, "the lady who visioned 'beautiful Warren.'"

The park itself, only one of the many contributions to the Warren area presented by Mrs. Walker, is situated on a 60-acre tract purchased and presented to the Borough of Warren by the public spirited citizens led by Charles Twining Conarro.

When Washington Park came into being its distinguished marker was unveiled by Mrs. Jane Walker Kopf, a granddaughter of Mrs. Walker.

In the past a sign marked the entrance to the park and a winding country road led to the popular spot. Nowhere in the area is there a more beautiful view to contemplate than from atop Bunker Hill and Washington Park.

But on Monday, a local couple and their daughter, who recalled the quiet charm of the park, took time off from their busy daily schedule to travel upwards for a picnic lunch.

What they found was this—the has been used for target practice and is deeply pitted from the pellets fired. Picnic tables have been badly abused and one is sans its bench. Broken glass

NEEDS A TRIM

Once the visitor finds Washington Park (the direction sign is missing) and travels its rustic road to the picnic site battling chuck holes most of the way, one finds the once attractive wooded and charming surroundings badly in need of trimming and mowing. (Photo by Mansfield)

TABLES ABUSED

Picnic tables at Washington Park have been sadly abused and hardly invite a family spread. This onetable provides for some nighty uncomfortable sitting to say the least—unless, of course, someone wants to perch on a pipe. (Photo by Mansfield)

NEGLECT

In the past this used to be a handsome log fence that indicated a parking area at Washington Park, located atop Bunker Hill (Liberty street ext.). Time and apparent neglect have felled the rustic facility, once one of the community's favorite picnic areas. (Photo by Mansfield)

Council Condemns Property

Warren Borough Council on Monday passed a resolution providing for condemnation of property of the Sophie Hollister Estate as a building in dangerous condition.

The property located at Fifth avenue w. and Beech street, which was unoccupied, was damaged by fire on Memorial Day with present owners to be advised that demolition must get under way on or before August 1 with 15 days after that date to complete that job.

Should owners fail to comply with the order within the given length of time, the borough will take steps necessary for demolition. In the event the borough takes over the owners must pay costs or an alien is taken on the property.

During the month of June, Stuart Winerlter, code enforcement officer, reported the following activities. There were 12 rooming units reinspected for rooming house permits with violations being corrected. Eighty-one dwelling units were inspected both inside and out for area inspection. Six violations were found of a minor nature and one dwelling was found in structure but had many sanitation problems.

Winerlter said five violations were corrected and more in the process of correction. One garage has been demolished, two complaints investigated and 27 building permits issued for a total value of $90,081.

The officer spent 20 hours on new construction and made three inspections with the fire chief. Winerlter spent 57 hours in the office and received 46 phone calls for information.

Area Awarded $15,200 For Transportation Study

A study of transportation problems in six Northwestern Pennsylvania counties has been assured by the awarding of $15,200 to the Warren-Forest Counties Economic Opportunity Council, Inc. for such a purpose. The funding was announced yesterday by the Senators Joseph S. Clark and Hugh Scott.

The study will be made by the Arthur D. Little Company. If a satisfactory feasibility report results steps will be taken either on the local level or with Federal funds to meet the needs of rural residents. These needs have been uncovered by numerous Office of Economic Opportunity projects and Project F.I.N.D.

The study will be done with the cooperation of all community action agencies in the counties above which include Warren, Forest, Erie, Crawford, Mercer, and Venango. It is expected that the report will be completed in approximately seven months.

County's Market Value Posted

The State Equalization Board has officially certified to the Superintendent of Public Instruction the total of 1967 market value of taxable real property in each of the 742 school districts in the Commonwealth. Chairman C. V. Atterback explained the changes in the 1967 market value over the 1966 are restricted to properties going on or off the tax assessment rolls.

The 1967 market value in Warren County is listed at $138,878,200; assessed valuation at $79,847,015 at a change of $3,849,900. In Spring Creek townships, market value is set at $1,755,200; assessed valuation, $979,132 and change at $10,100. Columbus townships shows $4,243,000 market value, $2,412,150 and change at $91,300.

The overall 1967 statewide market value is $41,372,919,700 or a three per cent increase over last year.

This June 30, 1968 certification of market values will be used as a reimbursement basis for the 1968-69 school year, subsidy payments to be made during the school year 1969-70.

Austin Man Arrested In Local Bank

An Austin, Pa. man was arrested at Warren National Bank Tuesday morning and charged with cheating by fraudulent pretense by borough police Sgt. Roger Theilin, who investigated.

Released on bail furnished by a local bondsman was Kenneth Austin Covell, 47, of Austin. His apprehension was based on a check cashed at Epstein & Sons on June 26 in the afternoon. Police stated Covell bought some articles of clothing taking the balance of the check in cash.

A second check cashed about a week later for approximately $200 at Gough's Drug Store is also under investigation, according to police.

It appeared Covell went to the bank to pick up a new book of checks. Police stated the accused had no bank account.

Willman Returns to Await New Trial for Murder

ERIE — John H. Willman was returned from the state penitentiary at Huntingdon to Erie County Jail Monday to await new trial, although his murder case may never be tried as a result of new court rulings. Willman's hearing, over suppression of two confessions to the 1960 Laura Mutch slaying, had been slated for Tuesday morning but was delayed tentatively until Aug. 1.

Counsel for Willman asked for the hearing postponement in the wake of a recent retraction of a controversial decision by the State Supreme Court.

The decision by the Court, a segment that has seemingly raised little furor compared to portions that define how far police must go in explaining constitutional rights to suspects, extended 1964 and 1966 U.S. Supreme Court rulings dealing with the admissibility of confessions to retrials.

If those high court rulings are made applicable to retrials, in cases such as Willman's where the rulings came after the original trial, Judge McClelland apparently would be bound to rule the statements inadmissible.

Willman, in that event, would probably be freed from the murder charge for lack of evidence.

Willman's attorneys hope the state high court will have a new decision before the Aug. 1 hearing.

Two months ago, Willman, now 41, formerly of 452 E. 8th St., won a new trial and vacation of his 1964 first-degree murder conviction in connection with the Dec. 30, 1960 murder of Mrs. Mutch.

THE 11TH ANNUAL FLOWER SHOW, sponsored by the Warren Garden Club and the Warren Woman's Club, is set for September 5th and 6th this year. Co-chairmen of the big event — the theme of which is "Show Time" — are Mrs. Rockwell O'Sheilly, Mrs. Robert Kusse, Mrs. Eugene W. Pring and Mrs. Gordon H. Kay. What with all the rain and mist, this has been a terrific season for growing things, and because of that, perhaps it isn't too far afield to visualize show entry blooms and plants of greater size and richness of color than are usually seen. I don't know, of course, I'm not a horticulturist, nor for that matter, am I even much of a gardener, though each year I try, with somewhat limited success, to keep a miniature garden of green plants growing in one large wooden planter in the West window of my living room (a Poinsettia, it never blooms but does have rich green leaves; a rubber plant; a Mandarin Orange tree; and, a sort of African wild grass).

IT'S HOMECOMING DAY AGAIN for Grand Valley and Community this Saturday, July 13th. Festivities will begin at 11 a.m. at the Sportsman Club — the former Goodwill Hill School House. A tureen dinner will be served at 1 p.m. Everyone is asked to bring table service, tables, chairs, coffee and cream; a Fish Fry will be provided by the committee according to Bud Weldon. All members of the area, past and present, are invited to honor the occasion with their presence.

FOR THOSE WHO ARE JAZZ ENTHUSIASTS, tickets to the "Schlitz Salute To Jazz," have been on sale for some time now, and mail orders are being accepted through July 25th. Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: If you say this woman's behavior is correct I will take your word for it and not give it another thought. Mrs. X is forever turning over the cups and plates when she attends a tea or a luncheon to see if it is bone china or something cheaper. I have seen her take eyeglasses out of her purse and examine the silverware.

She taps glasses testing for the true ring of expensive crystal. She fingers the tablecloth to determine the quality of the fabric. She sniffs book covers to learn if they are genuine leather or plastic. Once she touched a painting to see if it was a lithograph or an oil. The hostess was visibly irritated.

This woman is supposed to be one of the Boston Brahmins — beautifully educated and cultured to the core. What do you have to say about her conduct? — BROOKLINE

DEAR BROOKLINE: Cultured people don't examine china and silver for hallmarks while visiting friends. And I don't believe the woman you described is beautifully educated. If she were she wouldn't have to ping the crystal, sniff books and touch pictures to learn if they are the real McCoy. She'd know.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I must comment on the woman who signed herself "Mother Of A Ruined Boy." Some of the details were so close to my own life that I'm sure people who know me think I wrote it.

My son is 24 years of age and he can't decide what necktie to put on in the morning. If the eggs are too hard he throws them in the sink. We sent him to three different boys' camps and he didn't stay in any of them more than seven days. He was turned down by six colleges and when he was finally accepted by a small junior college he stayed only 10 days.

If his father didn't own a business he wouldn't have a job. When a girl turns him down for a date he cries. I have a 24-year-old baby on my hands and it is my fault. I ruined this boy and I am sad and sorry. Thank you for letting me get this off my chest. — ANOTHER FAILURE

DEAR ANOTHER: Getting it off your chest doesn't help the boy much. He has needed professional help for a long time. See that he gets it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a girl with a strange problem. It is the way my boyfriend dances. It's not that he is a rotten dancer. He is very good, TOO good.

I have done everything under the sun to follow him but I just can't do the fancy steps. I've practiced at home but it hasn't helped. If he would stick to simple dancing we would get along fine but he insists on doing the show-off stuff and it's not my style.

Why would a fellow embarrass a girl like that? Is there a solution? — TWO LEFT LEGS

DEAR TWO: I know the type. He doesn't need a partner because he's always doing a solo. Tell him you'd be glad to do the simple stuff but when he wants to try for the cup to please let you know so you can sit the number out and he can get a girl who will help him look good.

Drinking may be "in" to the kids you run with — but it can put you "out" for keeps. You can cool it and stay popular. Read "Booze and You — For Teen-Agers Only." Send 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request. Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Thiel Student From Japan Charms Local LCW Members

YOKO MATSUYAMA
YOKO MATSUYAMA

Miss Yoko Matsuyama of Japan, who just completed her freshman year at the Lutheran Church's Thiel College in Greenville, charmed an audience of First Lutheran Church Women on Monday evening when she was their guest speaker. One of the highlights of her program was a lesson in origami, the ancient and intricate art of Japanese paper folding.

Yoko, known to the local church's members with affection for some time, as a child of seven was baptized by a missionary supported by the Warren church, the Rev. W.W. Mattson. Through the event she became what is called in the church his "spiritual child." Gowned in a graceful, semi-formal kimono, Miss Matsuyama also showed her audience kodochrome slides of Pastor Mattson and scenes presenting the culture, beauty and customs of her country.

While in the United States, the Japanese student is a guest of the Lawrence Rays of Erie. She was accompanied to Warren on Monday evening by Mrs. Ray. Present at the July General meeting of the ten circles of Lutheran Church Women were some sixty members and guests. They enjoyed a tureen supper served in an oriental atmosphere: Tables were tastefully decorated, and a display of Japanese articles with a large map of Japan were arranged by the women of First Church. Mrs. Frederick B. Haer is president of the local group, and Mrs. Perry Wiedmaier Jr. is program chairman.

Miss Elizabeth Selander Bride Of Dr. Gordon Hamann

Elizabeth Selander and Dr. Gordon Hamann exchanged nuptial vows on Saturday, June 29, in a double ring ceremony by candlelight in the Calvary Baptist Church. The Rev. A. Wallace Olson, pastor, officiated in the presence of two hundred guests. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Eric Selander of Wesleyville, formerly of Warren, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Hamann of Hardwick, Minnesota.

Wedding music was provided at the organ by Mrs. Robert Donham, and vocal soloist was Mrs. Ronald Hamann of Minneapolis, Minn., sister-in-law of the groom. Two large baskets of white gladioli adorned the chancel of the church with two candelabra entwined with greens, four palms. A vase filled with a dozen white roses occupied a prominent place in memory of the bride's father.

Candlelighters for the service were Miss Sue Gordon of Minneapolis, Minn., and Miss Shirley Bruns of St. Paul, Minn. Escorted on the arm of her brother, the bride appeared in a gown of white silk organza over taffeta styled in princess lines, with accents of re-embroidered Alencon lace on the bodice and lower front of the gown. The high neckline had a scalloped edge of the lace and a band of the lace at the shoulders secured the full circular train of silk organza which had appliques of the lace. Her bouffant veil of silk illusion fell from a double crown of crystal, and she carried a bouquet of lilies, stephanotis and ivy in a cascade arrangement.

The maid of honor was Miss Diane Pankow of White Bear Lake, Minnesota. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Robert Bjerk of Inwood, Iowa, Miss Beth Turner of Eau Claire, Wisconsin, Mrs. Michael Warring of Bethel, Minnesota. All were gowned in aqua dotted Swiss over taffeta and wore head clusters of daisies in pink, yellow, aqua and white with aqua ribbon streamers. They also carried daisies, in pink, yellow, aqua, white in nosegays tied with aqua ribbon streamers.

The best man was Arlyn Hamann, brother of the groom, of Minneapolis.

Maurice B. Crump on the occasion of his 90th birthday on Monday evening was honored at a dinner party given at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Elliott, 805 Pleasant Drive. Thirty-five relatives and friends were present at the dinner.

Mr. Crump retired in December 1944 after 44 years service as a fireman then engineer with the Buffalo, Rochester, Pittsburgh Railroad, later merged with the Baltimore and Ohio. Born in Glenwood, N.Y., he has lived in Bradford since 1911.

The following are Mr. Crump's sons and daughters, not all of whom were able to be present at the birthday celebration: Mrs. Glenn Elliott of Warren, Mrs. Ralph Pitchure of Babson Park, Florida, Mrs. Sara Murphy of Bradford, Maurice Crump Jr. of Warren, Mrs. Gerald Samuelson of Dunkirk, N.Y., Leslie Crump of Babson Park, Florida, Richard Crump of Orlando, Florida. He also has thirteen grandchildren and twelve great-grandchildren.

of Minneapolis; and groomsmen were Robert Bjerk of Iowa, Donald Hamann, brother of the groom of Blacksburg, Virginia; and Ronald Hamann, brother of the groom, of Minneapolis, and Richard Reed of Warren.

The mother of the bride chose a two-piece aqua dress jacket with aqua hat and the mother of the groom selected a pink crepe and lace dress with pink accessories. Both mothers had corsages of large red Duchesse roses.

The reception was held in Fellowship Hall at Calvary Baptist Church with two hundred attending. The center of decorations was the 5 tier wedding cake topped with a nosegay of pink, aqua, yellow and white daisies; cake layers were separated by pillars with daisies between the layers and around the base of the cake. Placed around the cake were the four bridesmaids' bouquets.

Master and mistress of ceremonies were Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McKelvy; aides were Miss Karen Schultz, Miss Tricia Johnson, both of St. Paul, Minnesota, Mrs. Arlyn Hamann of Minneapolis, Miss Betty Baerg of St. Paul, Miss Ruth Johnson of Warren, Miss Joan Parker of Minneapolis, Mrs. Donald Hamann of Blacksburg, Virginia, and Mrs. Richard Reed of Warren. Miss Linda McKelvy managed the guest book. Also, the Misses Joy and Debbie Reed, Joyce Rydholm, Debi Spangler, Jane Asp, Marilee Hollabaugh, and Mrs. Myron Rydholm, Mrs. H. A. Backstrom and Miss Emma Moore.

For traveling to New England and Canada, the new Mrs. Hamann wore a two piece linen suit of coral with white accessories and a white orchid corsage. Dr. and Mrs. Hamann will be at home after July 13, at 602 North East Park street, Luverne, Minnesota.

The bride is a graduate of Warren Area High School, attended Bethel College, St. Paul, Minn. for one year, and this June graduated from Mounds, Midway School of Nursing in St. Paul. The groom, a 1967 graduate of the College of Veterinary Medicine at the University of Minnesota, is now engaged in practice in Luverne, Minnesota.

Pre-nuptial affairs were given by friends of the bride in St. Paul; Mrs. Hugh McKelvy of Warren; Mrs. Richard Reed of Warren; the groom's aunts in Luverne, Minnesota; and Mrs. Richard Thompson of St. Paul. The rehearsal dinner was given at the Three Flags Inn.

The Rev. D. W. Walboldt Weds Penelope Dian Barley

The marriage of Miss Penelope Dian Barley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Barley of North Warren, to the Reverend Daniel Willard Walboldt, fourth son of Mr. and Mrs. John Daniel Walboldt of Canfield, Ohio, took place at North Warren Presbyterian Church recently. The Reverend Nelson Beck and the Reverend Meade Letts performed the ceremony in the presence of the families and close friends.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white organza with three-embroidered Alencon lace and pearl trim, finished with a scoop neckline, three-quarter trumpet sleeves, and an A-line skirt with square Watteau train. Her white silk illusion bouffant veil was held by matching Alencon lace petals with pearl trim. Her only jewelry was the gift of the groom, a single strand of pearls. She carried a stephanotis strand bouquet with blue forget-me-nots and lilies of the valley.

The bride's attendants were Marilyn Elizabeth White, maid of honor from Poland, Ohio; Marina Angle of New York City; Mary Lynn Brown Menair of Pittsburgh and Warren; Sarah Claudia Miller of Pittsburgh; Sandra Muller of Tucson, Arizona; Christina Torchia of Pittsburgh. All carried blue Shasta daisies with pompons and leather leaf foliage. Their floor length gowns were white linen with Venetian lace and their headpieces were matching bows with petals and backveils.

Don Williams was the best man, and ushers were William Charles Walboldt and Clinton Grover Walboldt, brothers of the groom, and the Reverend John Almond, the Reverend John Yonker, Captain Rolando Tocci, and the Reverend John Yonker.

For her daughter's wedding, the mother of the bride wore an aqua silk dress with matching accessories, and the mother of the groom wore a blue brocade ensemble with white accessories. Both had white rose corsages. Unable to attend, the two grandmothers of the groom received bouquets at home.

A reception for three hundred and fifty guests was held at the Conewango Valley Country Club. Arrangements of blue Shasta daisies, white roses, baby's breath and fern were used throughout.

Following a honeymoon in the Bahamas, the couple will reside at 262 Raffensperger, Springfield, Ohio.

The new Mrs. Walboldt is a graduate of Warren Area High School, class of 1961, and Chatham College in Pittsburgh, 1965, where she majored in Education. She earned a Masters degree in Spanish at Middlebury College, Middlebury, Vermont in 1967.

Mr. Walboldt is a graduate of Ohio State University with a Bachelor of Science degree in Vocational Education. He attended graduate school at Ohio State, majoring in Sociology and is presently a senior at Methodist Theological School in Delaware, Ohio. Mr. Walboldt is also presently employed by the Methodist Union of the Springfield District as a director for Inner-City work.

Heloise Advises College Class of '72

I think it's wonderful that Mother and Dad can send you off to college. Be sure and thank them for being thrifty enough to be able to afford it! (I am sure they did without lots of things to be able to save enough for you to go on this new venture.)

The question uppermost in your minds probably is, "Oh, if I only could have a complete new wardrobe, with all the trimmings..."

Well, it's not only impractical, but usually CAN'T be done. Try to keep in mind that Mother or Dad probably haven't had one COMPLETE new outfit since you were born!

What we like—and what we get—are two different things! There usually is no need, whatsoever, to buy a complete wardrobe, because most of what you have is entirely good. Keep in mind, when you start through your closet, that the girls you will meet at college have never seen any of your clothes before, so everything will be new to them!

Let's try to save any way we can by utilizing what we have.

The first thing to do is clean your room and make your bed. You will need this space to pile all the clothes from your closet.

Next, bring in the sewing machine and mending basket, the ironing board and iron, and set them up in your room.

Remove EVERYTHING from your closet, one-by-one, and inspect each item closely.

You will probably find that all this-or-that dress (or skirt) needs is the hem taken up! Do it then—I can guess that the reason you haven't worn it for a long time is that you never got around to the needlework before.

Now, the best way to do this is to invite a girl friend over, and utilize some of her ideas, too. Next week, you can go to her house and reciprocate. This way it's fun instead of being a chore.

Blouses and skirts can be intermixed beautifully. So don't discard any of them if they are in good condition. Press and alter them, and take 'em with you. Lots of newsters (that's you freshmen!) trade skirts or blouses with one another after they get in the dorms. This is great—saves Mom and Pop more money—and you get something new.

Go through your entire closet, separating each garment as you mend it. Polish your shoes, including an old pair as you will be going on picnics and rallies. And (though you don't know it yet), come weekends, you will be washing your hair, doing your own laundry and ironing. You sure can't do this in nice clothes. Also, Mother won't be there to do it for you.

When you come across an old pair of slacks that are worn at the knees, remember they can be cut off to make darling shorts! Cut and hem them now, then press 'em. Your girl friend will help you.

When you think you are through, look in that closet again to see what's left. Make your decision THEN about what to do with all that stuff. Either trade it to your girl friend for something of hers, or ask Mom what to do with it. Your closet should be completely bare—just like Mother Hubbard's.

Then start hanging the stuff back. Put all the repaired clothing you are going to take with you on one end, and all the things you are going to leave behind, on the other. Now you will be qualified to go on that shopping journey.

Mother and Dad have, most likely, told you just how much you can spend on your "going-away wardrobe." You will find that this is not enough—but your parents probably have thought the SAME thing all the years they were rearing you—so spend it wisely. Don't spend all of your budget in one place. Look for the ads in your local newspaper and learn to compare prices.

I am a firm believer in drip-dries. Saves ironing. So when you decide what you have to buy to complete your wardrobe, look for drip-dries. Be SURE to save the hang-tag and tuck it in your suitcase so you can refer to it (write pink blouse, etc., on the tag) because you will need it later—and Mom won't be there to ask and long distance calls are costly.

Buy things that are basic. Many of these can be mixed or matched through the whole semester.

So always write to them at least once a week—even if it's only a postcard. If they didn't love you, they wouldn't have saved and budgeted so hard all these years so you could get a wonderful education.

Aren't Moms and Dads great things to have?

Opening lead: Five of ♣. The preemptive opening bid is a two-edged weapon. While it frequently serves to interrupt the easy flow of information between opponents and subjects them to high level guesses during the auction, it sometimes backfires against its user by providing valuable information concerning the distribution that enables a perceptive declarer to make an unnatural play.

Observe South's performance in this hand, where he found himself the declarer at four hearts after East had opened the bidding with three clubs.

West opened the five of clubs and East played the queen and then cashed the ace. The shift was to the deuce of spades. South put up the ace, for there was no question in his mind concerning the location of the king. East had already shown up with nine points in the club suit and the declarer reasoned that his opponent would not have made a preemptive bid if he held an honor on the side.

While the normal play in the heart suit is to lead over to the king and then finesse the jack on the return, South was convinced that the queen of trumps was held by West. If West has the ten as well, then there is no way to avoid the loss of a trump trick. If East has the ten, however, then South can pick up the entire suit by an unusual play.

Declarer led the jack of hearts from his hand. West played the five, North the six, and East followed with the deuce. The king and ace of hearts picked up the remaining trumps and South drove out the king of spades by playing the ten. When he regained the lead, he cashed the queen and jack and discarded the three of diamonds from his hand. His losses on the deal were two club tricks and one spade.

Your Horoscope

By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is according to the stars, FOR WEDNESDAY, JULY 10, 1963

ARIES (March 21 to April 20) — Favorable influences encourage usual activities and things that run "by themselves," or with little change. In out-of-the-ordinary matters, watch for flaws, pitfalls. Concentrate; be logical in offering suggestions.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21) — Study the whys and wherefores of past successes; Small additions, minor alterations in your present approach and attitude could make a great difference in the advances you make. Mediocrity never satisfies you.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21) — What you accomplish now will determine strongly for or against future progress. This is a pivotal period, important on both personal and work scores. Be discreet as you step briskly.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23) — Don't let dreams take the place of action, even though they can be highly inspirational. Favorable lunar influences stimulate your ingenuity and adaptability.

LEO (July 24 to August 23) — A splendid day for getting ahead in personal matters, which can aid you and yours in a BIG way. Your innate originality and diligence will net you fine advantages.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23) — Note Leo: Your outlook similar. A spirit of magic and romance in the air. Tackle chores happily.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23) — Resist foolishness, but not fun that relaxes. Inject your brand of conscientiousness and stability into all activities.

SCORPIO (October 24 to November 22) — Mixed influences. Organize talents and know-how to promote your interests more efficiently. Some plans must be deleted from your program. Keep confidences; forge anxieties.

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21) — Understand people with whom you are involved, as well as the needs of all, will be half your battle won. Study proposals, plans thoroughly, then act when the time is ripe.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20) — Don't try to "go it alone." You must have, and need, cooperation now; hold discussions with intelligent heads. Benefits from past endeavors indicated.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19) — Do not overtax yourself mentally or physically, but do maintain a tempo progressive enough to acquire the many gains that are attainable.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20) — A stimulating Neptune now encourages your best endeavors, but do not venture too far afield in search of "greener pastures." Be true to your better nature and enjoy multiple rewards.

YOU BORN TODAY are highly sensitive, conservative, affectionate, emotional, often witty in your quiet way. These are powerful traits: Be sure that they are properly nurtured and used in your daily life. They will you be the outstanding family person and community stalwart you were meant to be. Your natural fields are law, lecturing, writing, after-dinner speaking, the judiciary, medicine and hygienics. All Cancer natives are inclined to be stubborn, wary of new trends, and too rigid in family issues. Birthdate of: Wm. Blackstone, writer on law; David Brinkley, TV news commentator.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

THE 'LOADED LIVER'
A reader writes: "Is alcohol the only cause for cirrhosis of the liver or is something else responsible?"
Alcohol is a liver poison and the organ is damaged in a high percentage of those consuming too much booze. But only 10 per cent of alcoholics go on to develop a cirrhotic liver. It is believed that they have an inherent susceptibility to liquor.

On the other hand, many with cirrhosis are heavy drinkers, and it is for this reason alcohol is blamed. A very small percentage with infectious and serum hepatitis develop the disease. Dietary deficiency frequently is blamed, but cirrhosis seldom, if ever, occurs to non-alcoholics suffering from malnutrition. We know that boozers often have faulty eating habits, but we blame the liquor, not lack of food.

Other conditions also damage the organ, but they are rare. In England, no acceptable cause is recorded for 40 per cent of those dying from the disease. There is a good possibility that this is done to avoid the stigma associated with alcoholism. It is interesting to note that liquor may damage the liver of a laboratory animal, but the animal never gets cirrhosis. Apparently alcohol exerts this unique effect only on man.

Cirrhosis is the result of degeneration and destruction of liver cells. When viewed under the microscope, the architectural pattern of the cells and ducts is disorganized by scar tissue and inflammation. Cellular appearance also is altered when the liver attempts to regenerate or rebuild the damage already done. The numerous functions of the liver are affected when cirrhosis sets in. This is why the manifestations are varied and often so remote they seem to be unrelated. Spider veins may develop on the face and chest, the male breast may enlarge, and scalp and body hair tends to thin. Fluid accumulates in the abdomen and large veins develop in the liver area. The face is flushed, palms and soles reddened, ankles swell, and there is tremor of the outstretched hand.

TOMORROW: Exposed to Carbon Monoxide.
Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.
HERNIA CORRECTED AT 69
Mr. G. writes: Do you think a man is taking a great risk in having hernia surgery at age 69? He is in good health otherwise.

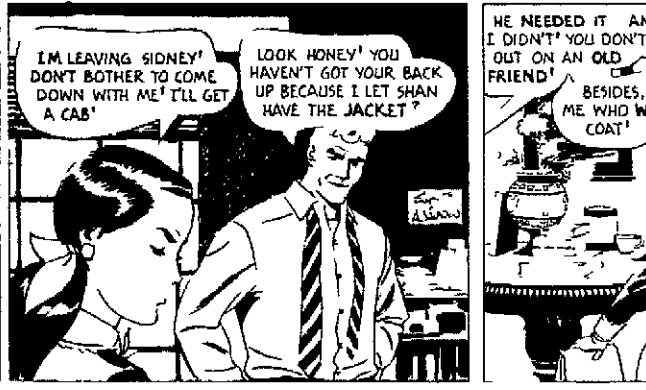

REPLY
The decision to operate is too important to be made thru a health column. In general, there is no age limit for this procedure, provided the individual is in good health and the tissues are strong enough to be sutured together.

BRAINS, BRAWN, STROKES
A. K. writes: Are workers who think on the job more susceptible to stroke than manual laborers?

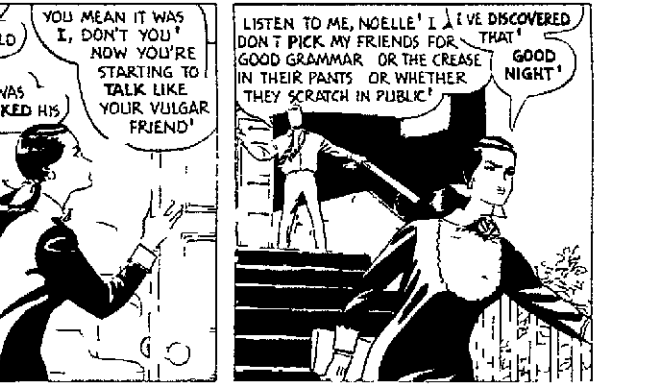

REPLY
No. Strokes are due to hardening of the arteries of the brain, a condition not affected by occupation. And, for the record, manual laborers must think on the job to survive.

TODAY'S HEALTH HINT — Never poke around in baby's ear.

Treat Hubby's Catch Right

Whether that great big fish is the result of your husband's yen for fishing or comes from the market, do stuff and bake it. You'll never regret this decision if you use the following recipe.

This way of stuffing fish is so utterly delicious we wish we had originated it. But in all honesty, and although this rule is presented here for the first time, we can't stake it out as our own development. That claim belongs to a friend of ours who's both inventive and a marvelous cook.

The stuffing features crabmeat plus liquid gravy seasoning and browning sauce. Both give fine flavor to it.

While the fish is in the oven, bake some potatoes. Then serve sweet green asparagus as the vegetable. Follow with a compote of fresh fruit and some really delicious cookies and your family and guests will bless you.

BAKED FISH WITH CRAB STUFFING

5-pound fish, split and prepared for stuffing

2 eggs

1 can (6½ ounces) crabmeat, drained and flaked and any tendons removed

¼ cup diced celery

¼ cup minced parsley

1 small white onion, minced

2 teaspoons liquid gravy seasoning and browning sauce

3 tablespoons butter, melted

1½ cups fine soft white bread crumbs

Salt and pepper to taste

Grease a large shallow baking-and-serving dish or use a shallow roasting pan (17 by 11½ by 2 inches) and line it with greased foil. Wash fish and wipe dry; place it in the pan.

In a medium mixing bowl, beat the eggs just enough to combine yolks and whites; add the remaining ingredients, with a fork, mix lightly but thoroughly. If stuffing seems dry, sprinkle with 1 or 2 tablespoons hot water and mix.

Stuff cavity of fish with mixture; close opening with skewers and, if you like, lace with string; or loosely sew up opening with darning needle and heavy white thread.

Melt a little extra butter and add a little extra liquid gravy seasoning and brown sauce to it; brush mixture over top of fish.

Bake in a preheated 500-degree oven for 10 minutes. Turn oven temperature to 400 degrees and continue baking until top is browned and fish flakes easily when tested with a fork—about 40 minutes. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

FISH WITH STUFFING

Baked fish with a delectable stuffing. Brush the fish with melted butter plus liquid gravy seasoning and browning sauce before baking.

Ella Fitzgerald to Appear In Chautauqua Amphitheater

Ella Fitzgerald, the "First Lady of Song," will fill the Amphitheater with the sound of her incomparable voice on Thursday evening, July 11 at 8:30.

Vocalists come and go, but the Fitzgerald singing stock continues to grow in value. Her concert at New York's Philharmonic Hall last November was a sell out. Even the stage seats were sold. Her appearance at the Newport Jazz Festival brought rave reviews. One critic said, "If there was one artist whose work stood tall among all these giants, it was Ella Fitzgerald... Never has there been a more moving example of the spirit, beauty, beat and total vocal control of which a jazz singer is capable. Ella can do anything to a melody except damage it. So singular is her reputation that the words, 'Ella, in Concert' are enough to announce her performance.

Ella is indeed rare. Her ear is so exact that musicians have been known to tune instruments to her voice. Her range is incredibly wide and her musicianship starting in that she has never studied formally. Her stage presence has a quality of conveying to an audience the complete meaning of a song. Her Chautauqua program will include old favorites like "Day in Day Out," and "Lady Be Good," contemporaries like "On a Clear Day," "Sunny," "Going Out of My Head," "Satin Doll," and "Mack the Knife," and the skat renditions for which she is famous like "How High the Moon," and "Jazz Samba." Best of all, the unexpected, a great singer's response to a particular audience, the special numbers chosen to fit the occasion.

Ella Fitzgerald holds more awards for her inspired styling than any other popular vocalist. Some of the recent accolades include "Woman of the Year, 1967," by the National Association of Radio Announcers; Woman of the Year, 1966," Los Angeles Times; "Favorite Female Jazz Singer, 1967," Downbeat Critics Poll. Harper's Bazaar magazine elected her "Most Accomplished Woman of 1967" in the entertainment field. Billboard Magazine chose her "Favorite Female Vocalist on the College Campuses, 1967."

Ella's recordings are legion, close to 100 albums. She is most distinguished for her "Songbooks," nineteen albums in all, preserving and restoring not only the famous showtunes, but also the lesser known but equally beautiful songs of masters such as George Gershwin, Cole Porter, Rodgers and Hart, Jerome Kern and many others. Ella keeps pace with the times, including the new music with the old. "I don't want to be considered, as the song goes, 'As cold as yesterday's mashed potatoes.' I want to stay with it!"

And stay with it she does, for Ella Fitzgerald today is at the apex of her fabulous career. Admission to her concert in the Chautauqua amphitheater is by gate ticket which may be purchased at the Chautauqua gates the night of the performance.

Times-Mirror and Observer Readers: Special INTRODUCTORY OFFER brings you as much as $10,000.00 EXTRA CASH INCOME WHENEVER YOU GO TO THE HOSPITAL

- ★ PAYS IN ADDITION TO ANY OTHER COVERAGE YOU HAVE ★ Pays $100.00-A-WEEK CASH for each week you spend in the hospital...even up to 100 weeks
- ★ No age limit—no medical examination required
- ★ Checks are sent directly to you; money may be used any way you see fit

Act Now—GET FIRST MONTH'S PROTECTION FOR ONLY $1

(OR $2 FOR YOUR ENTIRE FAMILY.) THEN YOU MAY CONTINUE AT WORLD MUTUAL'S REGULAR LOW RATES.

Money back in full if not 100% satisfied. No age limit—Apply NOW by date shown in Enrollment Form below.

ONE OUT OF TWO FAMILIES will have someone in the hospital this year! It could be you—or some beloved member of your family, tomorrow...next week...next month. Sad to say very few families have anywhere near enough coverage to meet today's soaring hospital costs. These costs have TRIPLED in just a few short years. They are expected to DOUBLE AGAIN in the few years ahead.

Stop for a moment. Think how much a long stay in the hospital will cost you or a loved one. How would you ever pay for costly but necessary X-rays, doctor bills, drugs and medicines? What would you do if your pay check stops, but living expenses go right on—rent, phone, food, all the day-to-day expenses that never stop? What is the average bread winner to do?

Now you can receive $100.00 a week tax-free cash, from the very first day you enter the hospital for as long as you are confined there—even for 100 full weeks, if necessary!

This new plan relieves you of worry about the terrible financial threat of accident or illness. But you must apply during this limited enrollment period BEFORE the date shown in your coupon below.

THIS LIMITED ENROLLMENT OFFER ENDS SOON

Only $1 for First Month—Money-Back Guarantee

To encourage you to see how much this Plan can mean to you and your family, we make this unusual, money-saving offer:

You can now have your first month's protection for only one dollar! But, you must act immediately, because this unusual opportunity is offered for a limited time. Your request for this wonderful Income Protection plan must be mailed on your convenient form below NOT LATER THAN MIDNIGHT, of the date in the Enrollment Form.

This midnight expiration hour cannot be extended. If your enrollment form is mailed later, it cannot be accepted.

These are the ONLY Exclusions!

The new World Mutual Plan covers every conceivable kind of sickness and accident except, of course, hospitalization caused by the use of alcoholic beverages or narcotics; mental or nervous disorders; act of war; pregnancy, childbirth or miscarriage; expense resulting from any sickness or injury you had before the policy Effective Date (during the first 3 years only); or where care is in a Government hospital. Everything else IS covered.

How can $1 buy so much?

You can buy ordinary insurance at any time and pay the regular rates, if you wish. But World Mutual can now provide you with $100.00 a week tax-free Income Protection for just $1 the first month ONLY BECAUSE WE ENROLL A NUMBER OF PEOPLE AT ONE TIME—direct by mail! This highly efficient

PAYS YOU CASH

...$100.00-A-WEEK tax free cash starting your very first day in the hospital. No waiting period!

PAYS YOU CASH

...to a maximum of $10,000.00 any time you go to the hospital and stay for as long as 100 weeks.

PAYS YOU CASH

...Money mailed directly to you—not to the doctor or hospital

PAYS YOU CASH

...you get $100.00-A-Week in addition to whatever you receive from Medicare, Workmen's Compensation or any other insurance.

IF YOU ARE 65 OR OVER YOU WILL COLLECT IN ADDITION TO MEDICARE

Why are smart folks over 65 now hastening to protect themselves with The World Mutual Plan in addition to what "Medicare" will do for them?

Even though Medicare is a great boon to folks over 65, it will not, of course, pay all the bills that quickly pile up as a result of illness or accident.

Regardless of your age, you will still need additional health protection.

We have designed this plan as the important addition to what you receive from Medicare—or any other health insurance you may have.

Remember, all checks will be sent directly to you, to give you that "extra" help just when you need it most—to help pay any bills you choose. Best of all, your World Mutual protection will pay even for 100 weeks, if necessary!

"mass enrollment" method cuts costs to the bone. We are able to issue thousands of policies in a few short weeks—rather than spread the procedure over many long months—or even a year. Our overhead and processing expenses are reduced drastically—and the savings are passed on to you!

After your first month's protection, you may continue at World Mutual's regular low monthly rates—and the rate you pay now will never be increased because you grow older!

What Would Happen To Your Family?

The chances are one in seven that you will spend some time in the hospital this year. A fall on the stairs, in the bathtub, or on the sidewalk—a sudden illness or operation—could lay you up for weeks, months, perhaps even years.

Right now, you probably have some hospital coverage. You may think you're "safe" from all the financial burdens of sickness and accident. But hospital coverage usually takes care of only part of your expenses.

Can you afford the soaring costs of doctor, surgical, and nursing bills? Can you afford missing your weekly paycheck during the time you're laid up in the hospital? Even though you probably have some protection now—will it be enough? Sickness, accidents, hospitalization, cost many people their savings, their cars, even their homes. Don't take chances with your financial security. Now for only pennies a day, YOU can enjoy the added protection, the peace of mind, the freedom from worry that this new World Mutual $100.00-A-Week Extra Income Health and Accident Plan WNL-1-667 offers.

The Added Protection You NEED!

All benefits of this World Mutual $100.00-A-Week Income Protection Plan are paid directly to you, in tax-free cash, in addition to whatever you may receive from your other insurance! Spend the money as you see fit—for hospital or doctors' bills, mortgage payments—or any necessary but costly extras not fully covered by usual hospital policies.

Everything costs more these days (need we tell you?) and hospital care is certainly no exception! While 7 out of 8 Americans have some hospital insurance, most have found it does not cover all the bills that pile up when sickness or accident strikes. That's why World Mutual developed low-cost Income Protection that helps you pay either hospital costs or anything else you need or want!

You get your $100.00 per week ($14.28 per day)—TAX FREE—from your first day in the hospital, and as long as you are confined there, even for 100 weeks, if necessary.

For Older Folks—Greater Protection Than You Ever Would Have Thought Possible!

Right now, would advancing age prevent you from getting hospital insurance, or income protection with another company? Or if you could get a policy elsewhere, would you have to pay a big premium for it? Or perhaps you no longer have a regular income, and are living on Social Security. What would happen to you then if you had to suddenly go to a hospital?

Your "life saver" could be this wonderful World Mutual Income Protection Plan—because World Mutual welcomes folks of all ages into its Plan. You can even be OVER 100 and still be eligible!

Can You Afford to Miss This Chance?

Now, at less cost than you may ever have thought would be possible, you can set up a "gold mine" of protection from desperate financial straits if the need arises. Thanks to this unique new Plan, you can assure the solid, substantial protection you need—and not only save money, but assure yourself of other benefits, too, during all the years to come.

Our Famous MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE

We are so sure that we offer the best protection at the lowest cost, that we make our famous MONEY-BACK guarantee.

When you send for your policy, and it arrives in your hands, we want you to look it over as carefully and as often as you wish. See how thoroughly it protects you. See how exactly it meets the needs that you want covered. See how here, at last, is the policy that makes it possible for you to get the sickness and accident protection you need, in greater measure than ever before!

If you are not 100% satisfied that your policy is exactly what we have promised it to be, and exactly what YOU want it to be—send the policy back to us within 30 days and we will REFUND YOUR MONEY IN FULL, AT ONCE. But meanwhile you will be protected. And, if you decide to continue this wonderful protection, you may do so at the low rate shown below—a rate which will never be raised because you grow older!

World Mutual Plans Are Nationally Known

This money-saving World Mutual $100.00-A-Week Income Protection Plan truly offers outstanding value. Here's why: You can buy ordinary insurance from most companies at regular rates all year long. They're happy to issue one policy at a time. But World Mutual issues many new policies at one time during a limited enrollment period.

This "mass enrollment" method keeps our underwriting, processing and all other overhead expenses down to a bare minimum—and these savings are passed on to you!

THIS LIMITED ENROLLMENT OFFER ENDS SOON

Only $1 for First Month—Unconditional Money Back Guarantee

To introduce you to this new Plan, we make you this unusual offer: Act during this enrollment period and get your first month's protection for only one dollar (only $2 for your entire family)!

Simply fill out your enrollment form here and mail it with just $1 (or $2 for the entire family), before midnight, of the date within the coupon. A full month's protection will go into effect on the same day we accept your enrollment form. Your policy will be sent to you right away BY MAIL.

When you get your policy, examine all its benefits and features. Have it checked, if you wish, by your lawyer, doctor, clergyman, or other trusted adviser. If you are not 100% satisfied, return the policy within 30 days and your money will be refunded. If you decide to continue this worthwhile protection, you may do so at the low rates as follows for each member:

World Mutual Monthly Renewal Rates

Age at Enrollment	Monthly Premium
0-39	only $3.95
40-54	only $4.95
55-64	only $5.95
65-74	only $6.95
75 and over	only $9.25

NOTE: The regular Monthly Premium shown here (for your age at time of enrollment) is the same low premium you will continue to pay; it will not automatically increase as you pass from one age bracket to the next. Once you have enrolled in this World Mutual plan, your rate can never be changed because of how much or how often you collect from us—or because of advanced age—but only if there is a general rate adjustment, up or down, on all policies of this type in your entire state!

The reliable company behind your policy

Your policy is guaranteed by the World Mutual Health and Accident Insurance Company of Pennsylvania. We have been helping families safeguard their security with sound insurance protection for more than 47 years. Our rating by Dunne's Insurance Reports, the world's largest policyholders' reporting service, is A+ (Excellent). This is the highest rating any insurance company can reach.

As for our financial position, Dunne's analysis shows that for each $100.00 of liabilities, World Mutual has assets of $134.54. This is higher than the 5-year average of the 15 largest insurance companies in the country, which have assets of $107.62 for each $100.00 of liabilities. In addition to this ample margin of financial safety, you can count on us to handle your claims fairly and promptly when you are hospitalized. World Mutual has paid claims in every state and in many foreign countries as well.

Act NOW—"Later" May Be TOO Late!

TIME IS PRECIOUS! Act quickly (No salesman will call.) Get your enrollment form into the mail today—because once you suffer an accident or sickness, it's TOO LATE to buy protection at any cost. That's why we urge you to act today—before anything unexpected happens.

THESE 20 QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Tell you how World Mutual's $100.00-A-Week Income Protection Plan gives you the protection you need—at amazingly low cost!

- How much will this policy pay me when I go to the hospital? $100.00 per week.
- When will my hospitalization benefits start? The day you enter the hospital.
- Will I be paid if I am in the hospital for less than a full week? Yes. This new plan pays whether you are in the hospital for only a day, or a week, a month, or a year!
- Does this policy have any "waiting periods" before I can use it? No. It will go into force on the same day we accept your completed enrollment form and $1 premium (or $2 for your entire family).
- How long will I continue to receive hospitalization benefits? For every day you are in the hospital to a maximum of 100 weeks, as a result of any one accident or illness.
- Suppose I am paid benefits for any sickness or accident. What happens if I am again hospitalized for the same condition? After you have resumed full normal activities for just six months, you are again eligible for benefits for a recurring condition, to a maximum of 100 weeks. And of course, any new condition would be covered immediately!
- How may I use these benefit payments? You may use them in any way you wish—for hospital and doctor bills, rent, food, household expenses, or anything else. This is entirely up to you!
- Can I collect from World Mutual even if I carry other insurance? Of course. This plan will pay you in addition to whatever you may receive from any other policies, including Medicare, for folks over 65.
- Why do I need this World Mutual Plan in addition to my other hospital and health insurance? While hospital costs have tripled in recent years, very few people have tripled their insurance. The chances are one in seven that you will require hospital care this year—and you will need money to take care of all your other expenses, as well as your hospital bills. Your World Mutual checks are rushed to you by air mail to use as you see fit!
- May I apply if I am over 65? Yes, you may. Folks any age are welcome to apply—there is no age limit!
- Will my protection be cancelled because I have too many claims? No. World Mutual guarantees never to cancel your protection because you have too many claims or because of advanced age. We also guarantee never to refuse to renew your policy unless the premium is not paid before the end of the grace period, or unless renewal is declined on all policies of this type in your entire state. (Of course, if deception is used in making application, the policy may be ineffective.)
- Will benefits be reduced because of advanced age? No. Regardless of how old you become or how many claims you have, your benefits remain the same.
- Will my rates be raised as I grow older or if I have too many claims? No matter how many claims you have, or regardless of how long you keep your policy, your rate will remain the same as it was for your age when you applied. World Mutual guarantees never to adjust this rate unless the rates are adjusted on all policies of this type in your entire state!
- What is not covered by this policy? The only conditions not covered are those caused by: the use of alcohol or narcotics; mental or nervous disorders; pregnancy, childbirth or miscarriage; expenses resulting from any sickness or injury you had before the policy Effective Date (during the first 3 years only); act of war; or where care is in a Government hospital. Everything else is covered!
- What are the requirements for membership in this World Mutual Plan? You must not have been refused any health, hospital or life insurance; and, to qualify during this enrollment period, you must apply before midnight of the date in the coupon.
- Why is this offer good for a limited time only? Because by enrolling a large number of people at the same time, underwriting, processing and policy issuance costs can be kept at a minimum—and we can pass these savings on to you.
- Besides the savings, are there other advantages to joining World Mutual during this enrollment period? Yes. A very important one is that you do not need to complete a regular application—just the brief form in the lower left hand corner of this page. Also, during this enrollment period there are no other requirements for eligibility—and no "waivers" or restrictive endorsements can be put on your policy!
- Can other members of my family take advantage of this special offer? Yes, as long as they can meet the few requirements listed under Question 15.
- How does the money-back guarantee work? Examine your policy carefully in the privacy of your own home. If for any reason you are not completely satisfied, return it within 30 days and we will promptly refund your money. Meanwhile you will be fully protected while making your decision!
- How do I join? Fill out your brief enrollment form (be sure to sign your name) and mail it, with just $1 for the first month's protection, ($2 covers your entire family.) Mail to: World Mutual, 11401 Roosevelt Blvd., Philadelphia, Pa. 19154.
